FOREWORD

With the undertaking of this annual publication in the spring of 1954, it was the fond hope of the editor-in-chief, the appointed editors, staff members, and the moderator to publish a Galleon that was in the true tradition of old Setonia, but yet, in some respect, just a little different. Knowing that "there is nothing new under the sun," our efforts were humble and sincere from start to finish. The product of our labors is bound for eternity within the covers of this, the Galleon of 1955.

The story of our collegiate days is told in words and pictures on the ensuing pages, so the graduating senior may in future years, upon reading and re-reading the book, recall memories and once again relive the experiences, which he will always hold with vivid recollection.

When the fleeting years do go by, it is our expressed desire that this Galleon will last when all other pleasures have faded. That it will sustain the graduate when all other recreations are gone. We do know the Galleon will last you until your death, and it will make your hours pleasant to you as long as you live. "Books are the food of youth, the delight of old age; the ornament of prosperity, the refuge and comfort of adversity; a delight at home, and no hindrance abroad; companions by night, in traveling, in the country."

O MARY CONCEIVED WITHOUT SIN PRAY

FOR US WHO HAVE RECOURSE TO THEE

The 1955 Galleon Dedicated to Bishop Justin J. McCarthy

It is most fitting that in an age of great complexity and confusion we dedicate this year's Galleon to Bishop Justin J. McCarthy, one who stands as a model to the true spirit of Christian selflessness, humility and simplicity, qualities which are becoming rarer in present-day society.

Early recognized as one of the most brilliant sons of the Church, he was sent to the North American College at Rome to complete his studies for the priesthood. He was ordained in the Cathedral of Saint John Lateran, April 16, 1927 and, after returning to this country, he was assigned for a brief period to Saint Mary's Church in Morristown. Almost immediately, however, he was assigned to the faculty of the Immaculate Conception Seminary in Darlington. He devoted the next twenty-six years to the Seminary, eighteen of them as spiritual director gaining the love and admiration of all with whom he came in contact.

On November 3, 1953 he left the Seminary to assume the duties of pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows Church in South Orange. Seven months later, June 17, 1954, he was consecrated Titular Bishop of Doberus and Auxiliary to the Archbishop of Newark.

Despite all the honors and praises that have been showered upon him, Bishop McCarthy has retained the humility and humanity that have always characterized his life.

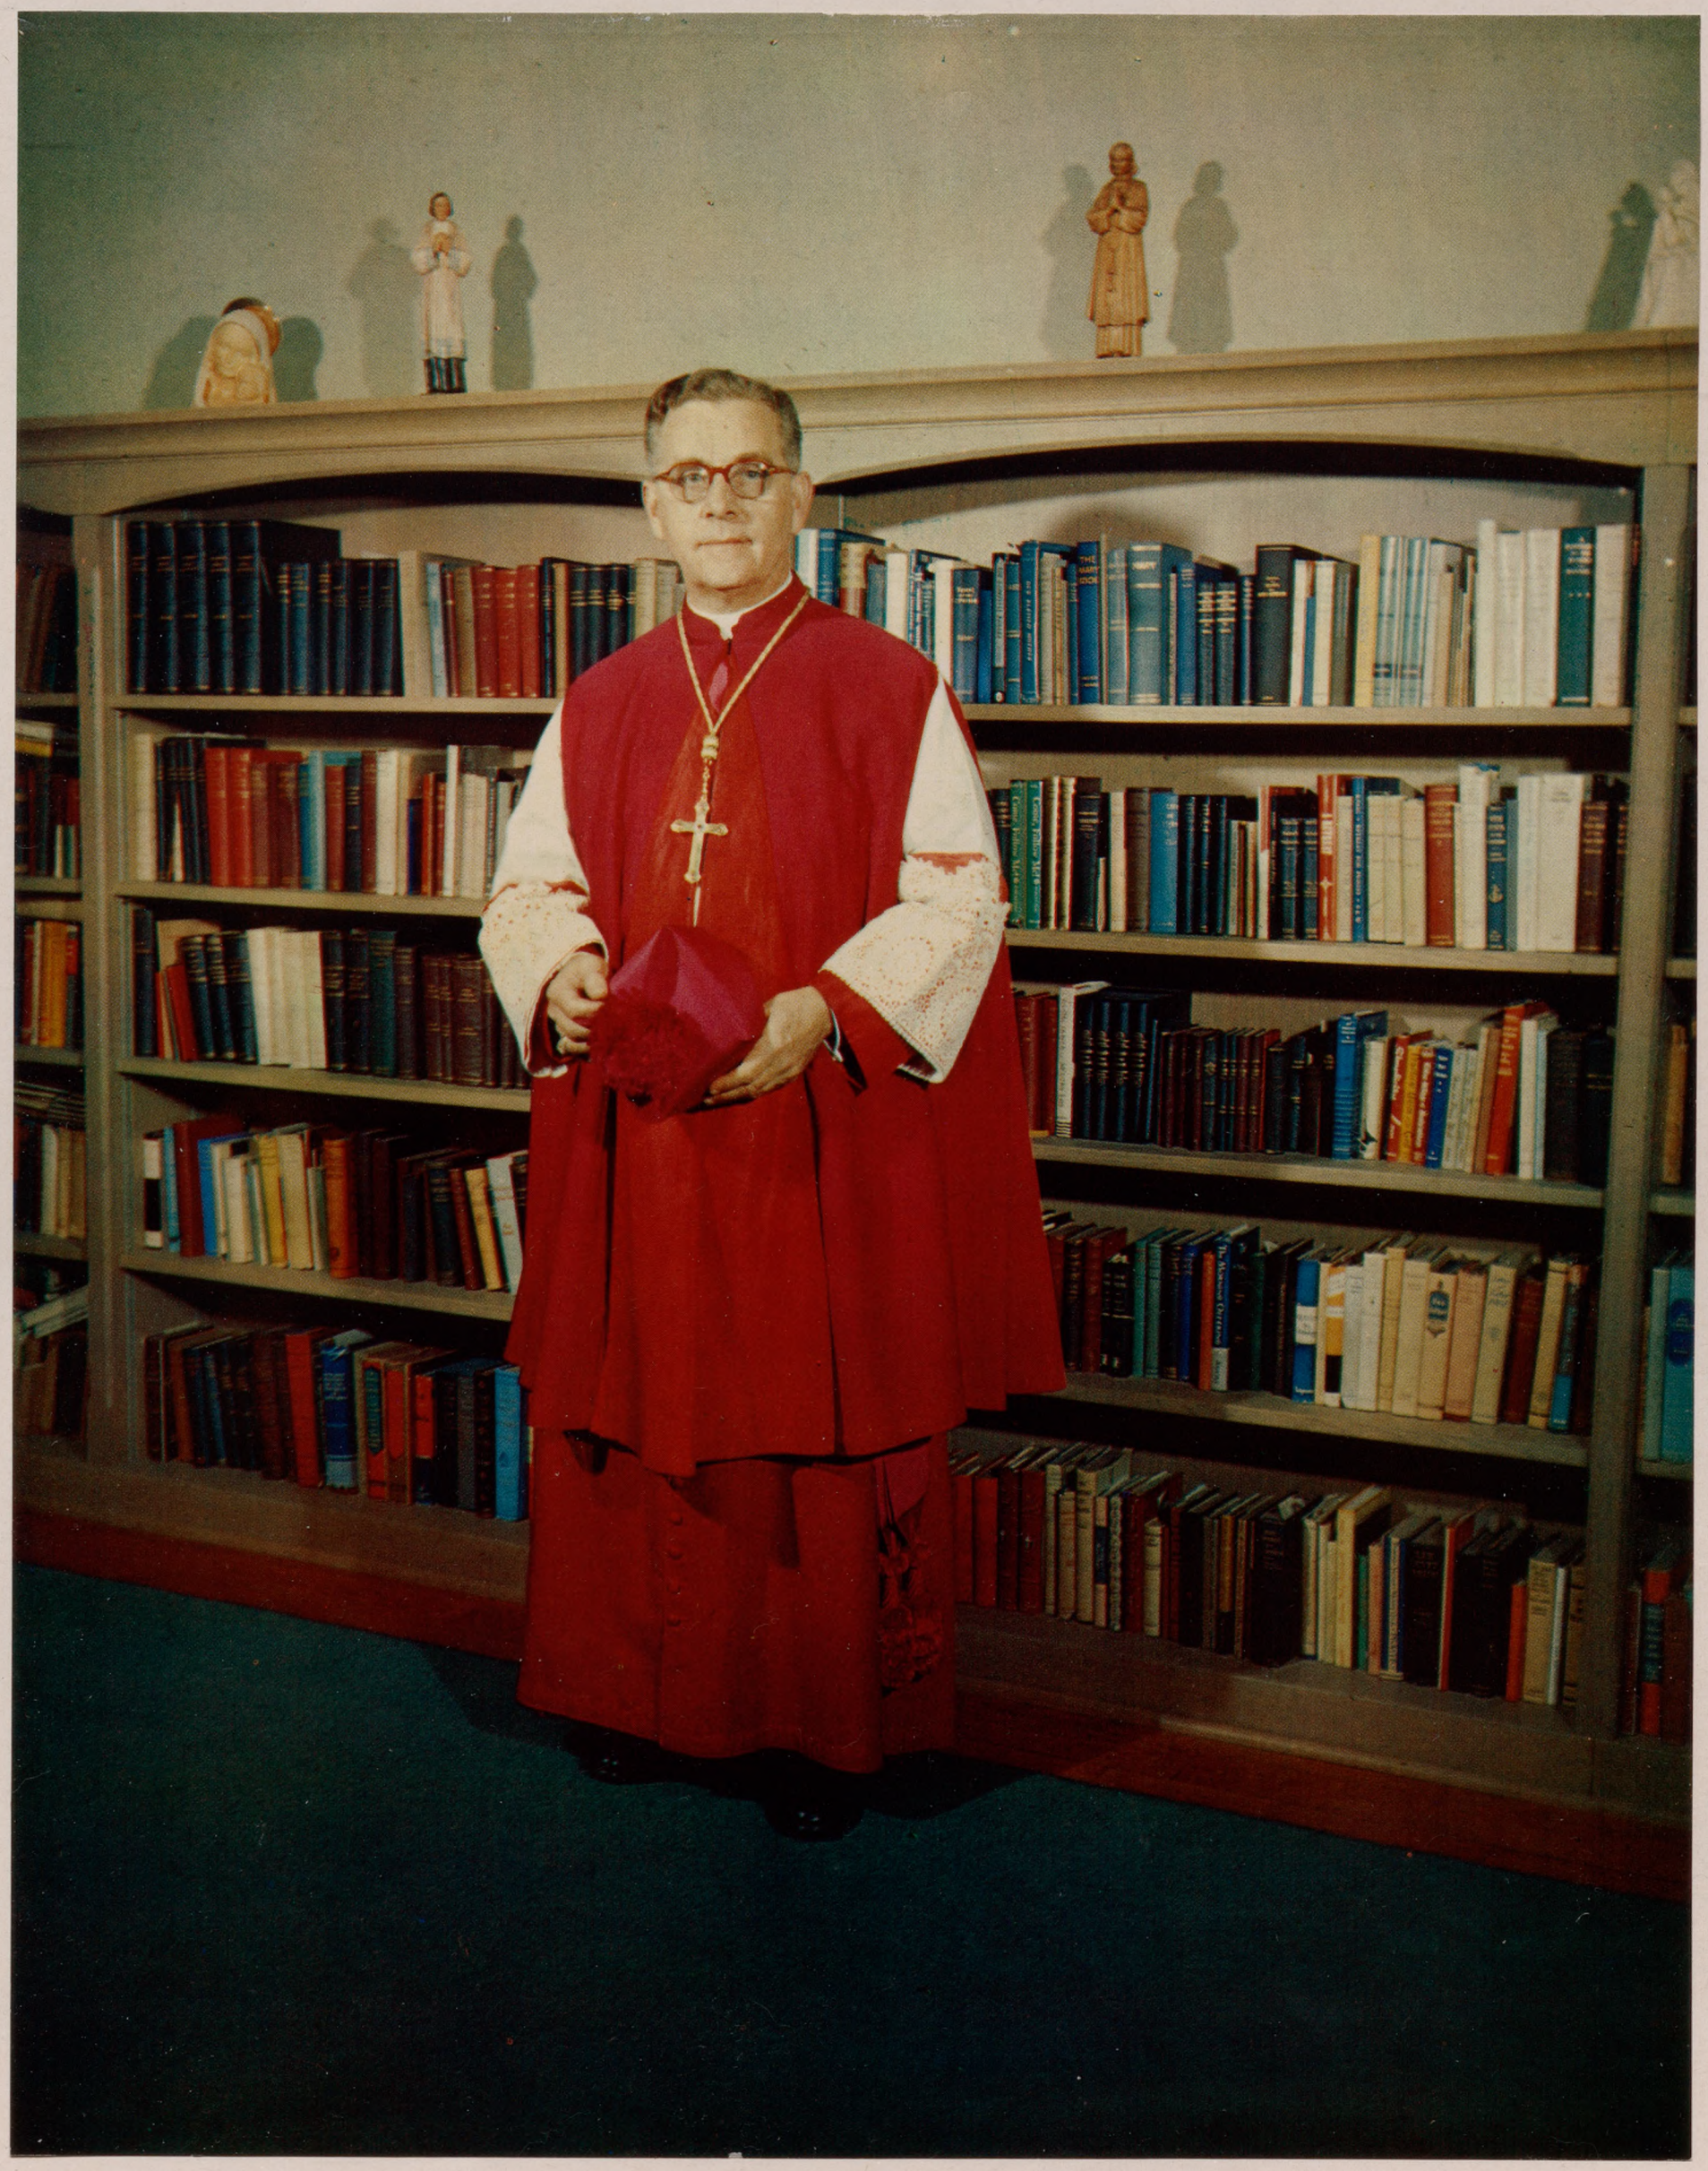

It is therefore with great pride that we dedicate The Galleon to a great man, a sincere friend, and an outstanding servant of God, Most Reverend Justin J. McCarthy, D.D.

Archbishop Boland offers his felicitations to Bishop-designate Justin J. McCarthy on his appointment as Auxiliary Bishop of the Archdiocese of Newark.

During another one of his busy days, Bishop McCarthy pauses at his desk at the rectory of Our Lady of Sorrows in South Orange.

BISHOP JUSTIN J. McCARTHY, D.D.
Auxiliary Bishop of Newark

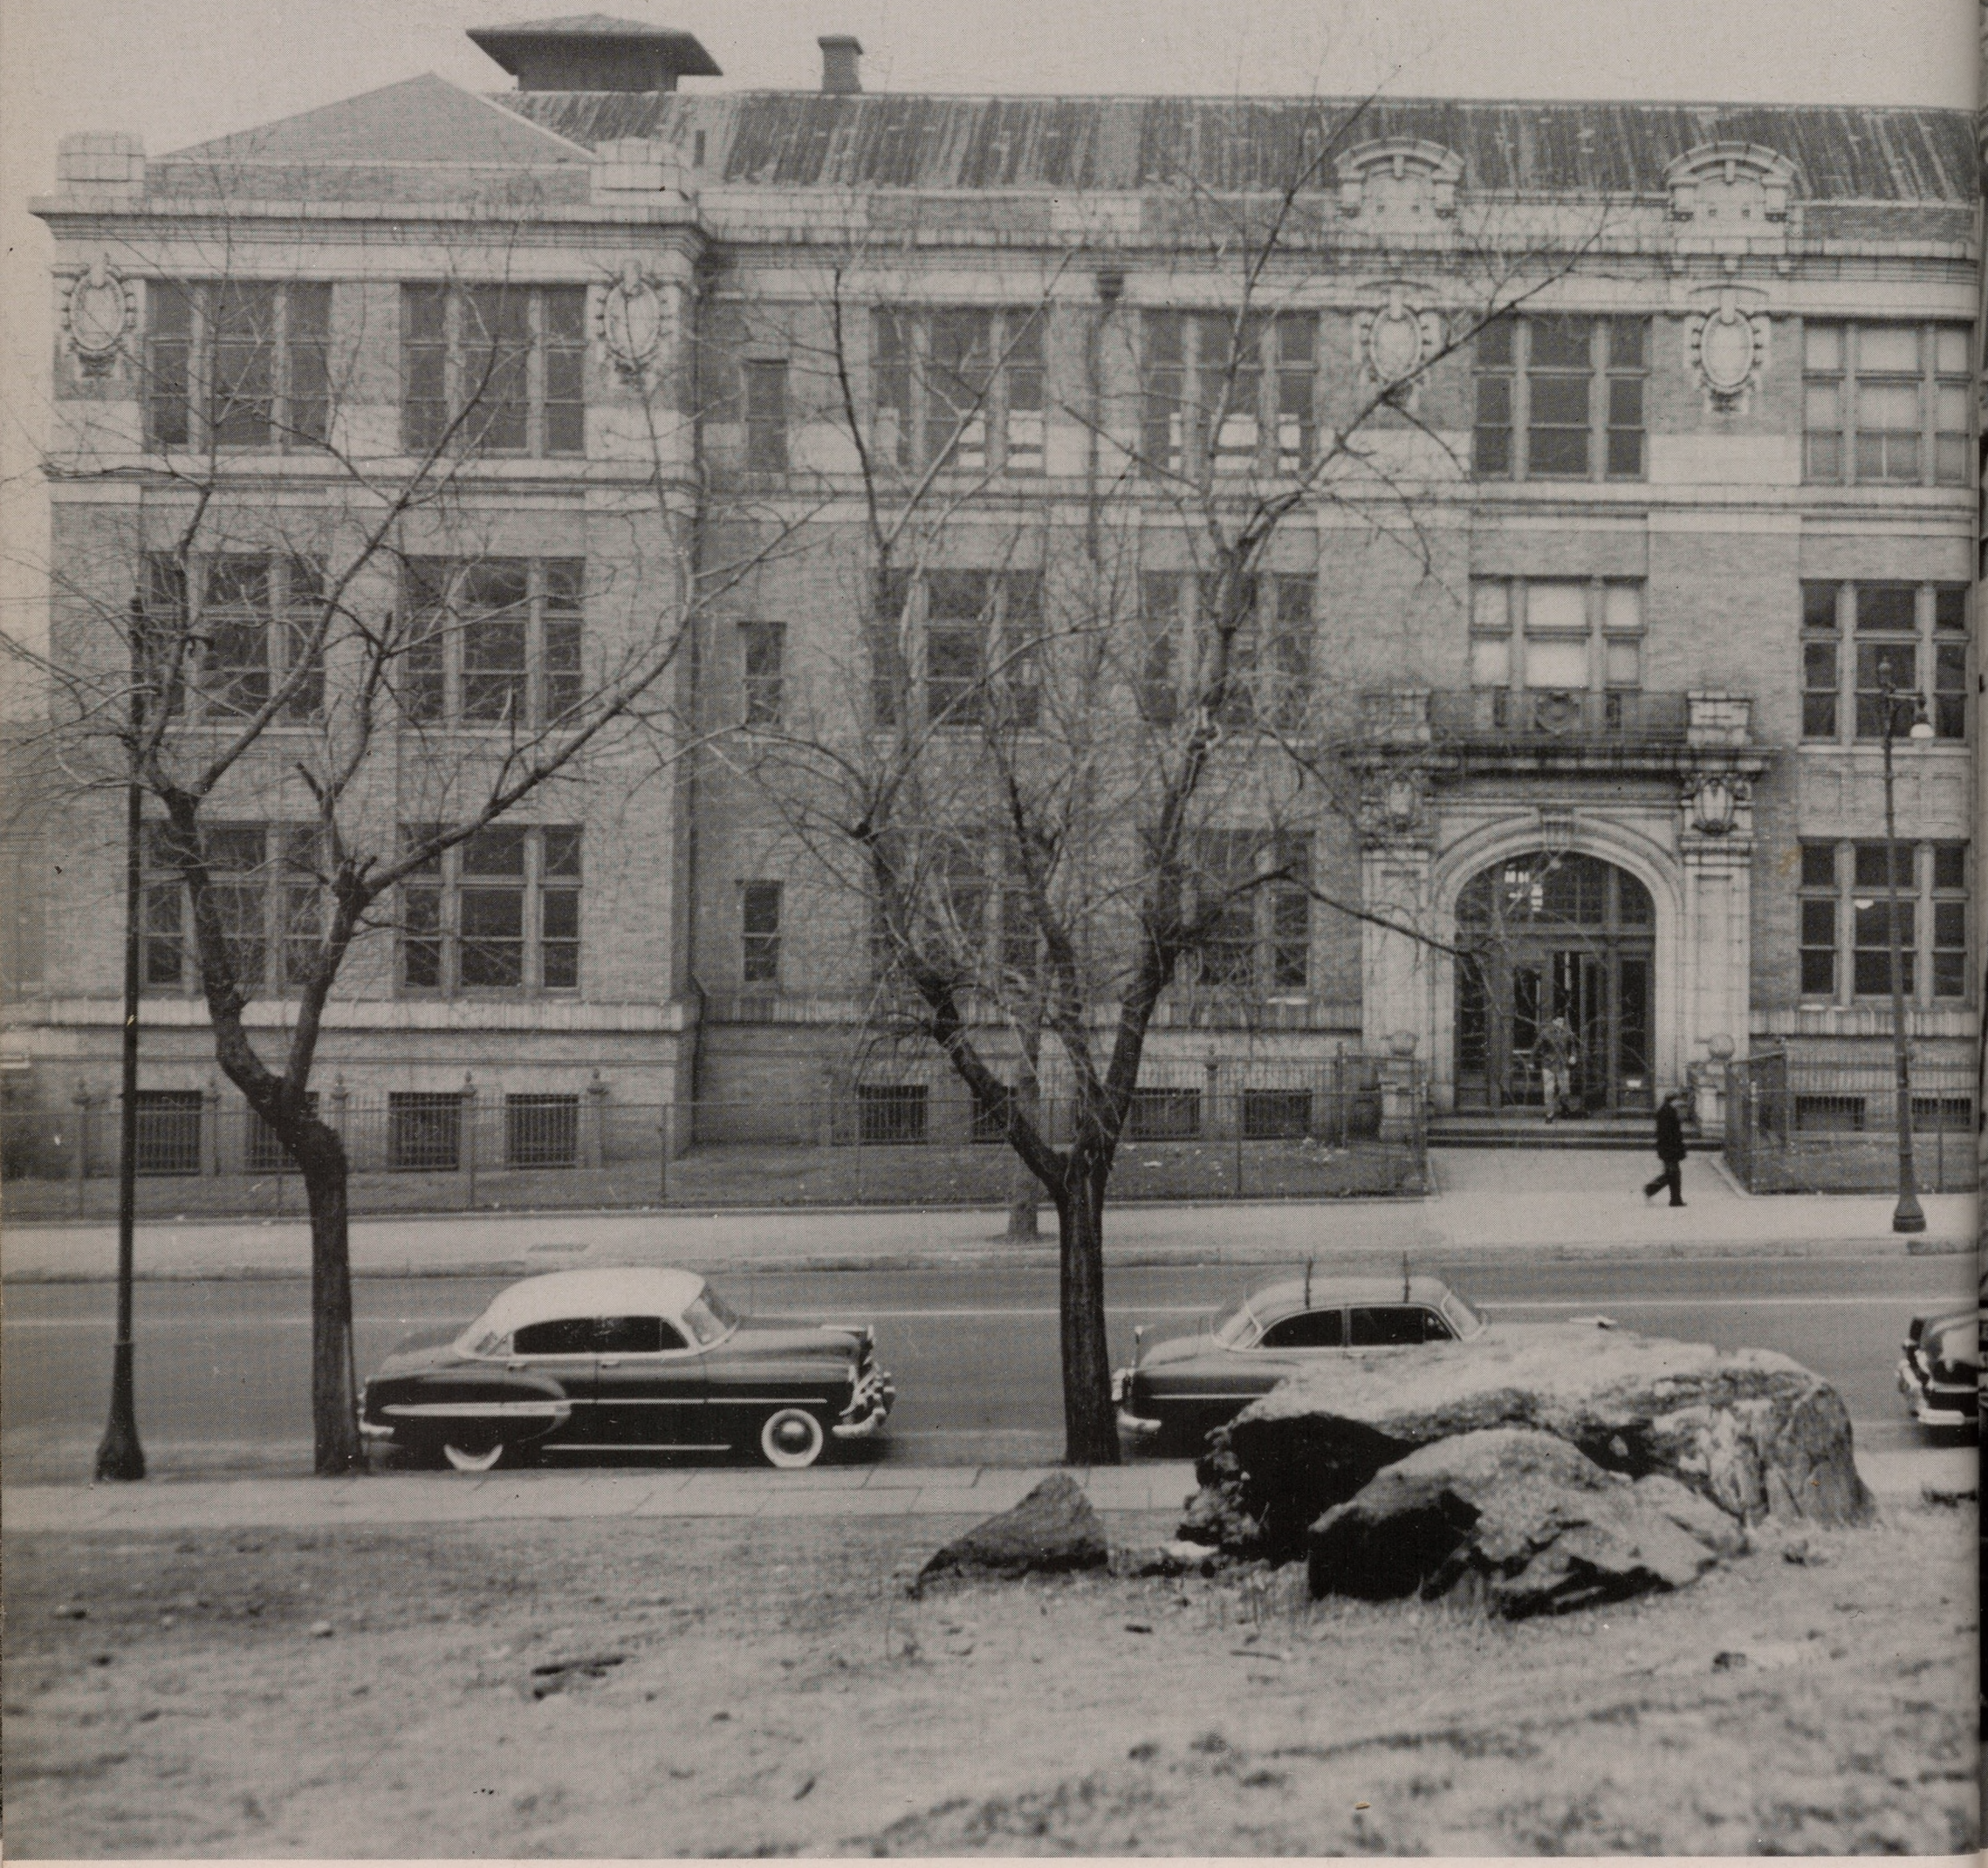

Law School Building, Newark

The Seton Hall Law School was first opened February 5, 1951 in Jersey City, but soon moved to Newark and established itself at 40 Clinton Street, the former site of the University College. In addition to its many classrooms, the building also contains a library of 18,000 volumes of American, British, and International Law, and facilities for conducting moot courts on Saturdays. Both undergraduate and graduate law courses are offered with due emphasis placed upon the applications of the criteria of philosophical realism, a viewpoint neglected by many law schools.

University College Building, Newark

At the University College in Newark, Seton Hall offers afternoon and evening classes in this twelve-story building at 31 Clinton Street. This impressive structure was purchased in the late summer of 1951 and the University College moved there from 40 Clinton Street where it had been housed since its inception in 1937. Among the facilities which it offers are an excellent library of 17,000 volumes located in a friendly, pleasantly furnished fifth floor retreat, two large student lounges which often provide excellent opportunities for various exhibits of art and sculpture, and many spacious classrooms.

University College Building, Jersey City

The University College in Jersey City was inaugurated in 1937, and holds its classes in this building at 3055 Hudson Boulevard. It offers opportunities to both men and women who wish to pursue either degree or non-degree programs, and courses are given in the arts and sciences, business, education, and nursing. Graduate courses are available in all these fields except nursing. Among many other features of the Jersey City center is its rapidly growing library of 5000 volumes.

Seton Hall Building in Paterson

The new extension of Seton Hall in Paterson is the latest in the University's dynamic extension program. Operating during the daytime it offers the usual courses in the arts and sciences, business, and education. Unlike Jersey City and Newark, it has an R.O.T.C. program which is closely affiliated with the campus unit in South Orange, and even has its own basketball team. The building has undergone extensive renovations to make it more suitable for academic use, and will include an excellent library which is now being assembled.

Medical Center in Jersey City

"To relieve suffering, to aid the injured, to cure the sick," these are the things that every young physician pledges his life to fulfill. From the time of Hipocratus to the era of atomic medicine young men have listened to the cries of humanity and have experienced the anguish of helplessness. They have felt a calling as strong and as loud as the bugler's shrill call to duty. It is for these men that Seton Hall will light the lamp of medical knowledge.

For years the otherwise progressive state of New Jersey ignored the problem of the lack of a medical school in the Garden State. "O, they can go out of the state for it if they want to become doctors," spoke the more vocal of the short-sighted. But as the years passed, fewer and fewer of the rising tide of applicants for a medical education were being accepted by out of state schools. It soon became evident that something had to be done. But it was not until the fall of 1953 that Seton Hall University made the momentous announcement of the opening of the first medical and dental school in the state of New Jersey. Blasted out of its complacency, the state quickly, too quickly in fact, started to move in the right direction. A bitter fight ensued over the vagueness of the referendum. The people spoke in the elections of 1954, and when the smoke had cleared Seton Hall University was still alone with the first and for a long time, the only medical and dental school the Garden Staters had ever known.

Noteworthy is the fact that all this could never have come about save for the advances medical science has made in the fight to make life easier for man. Tuberculosis had ceased to be a major killer and the cure had switched from long and costly isolation to the pleasure and comfort of the patients' home. This made the Tuberculosis Clinic at the Jersey City Medical Center a place of quiet corridors and empty beds. Already busy individuals took on the task of readying the building while the diplomatic corps of the University set out to secure the charter and lease.

When the dreaded killers of today are but a memory and we dwell in the security of adequate medical care, we can take pride in the fact that it was Seton Hall University that, like the United States Infantry, . . . "was fustest with the mostest."

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

"Well, how're you doin', Buddy," echoed across the Seton Hall green on the warm September day that marked the beginning of the senior year for the class of 1955. The cadet corps was still hard from the session at Camp Gordon while the summer's tan still lingered on the faces of the Pirates' Pride. The newly donned mantle of responsibility was as yet untested when plans were being made for the Senior Dance. The Galleon Staff was assembled for the first time and applications were printed for "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges." The new library, as well as the Science Building and Bishop's Hall, was now a source of pride when the call went out for help in the transferal of the 60,000 volumes to their modern home.

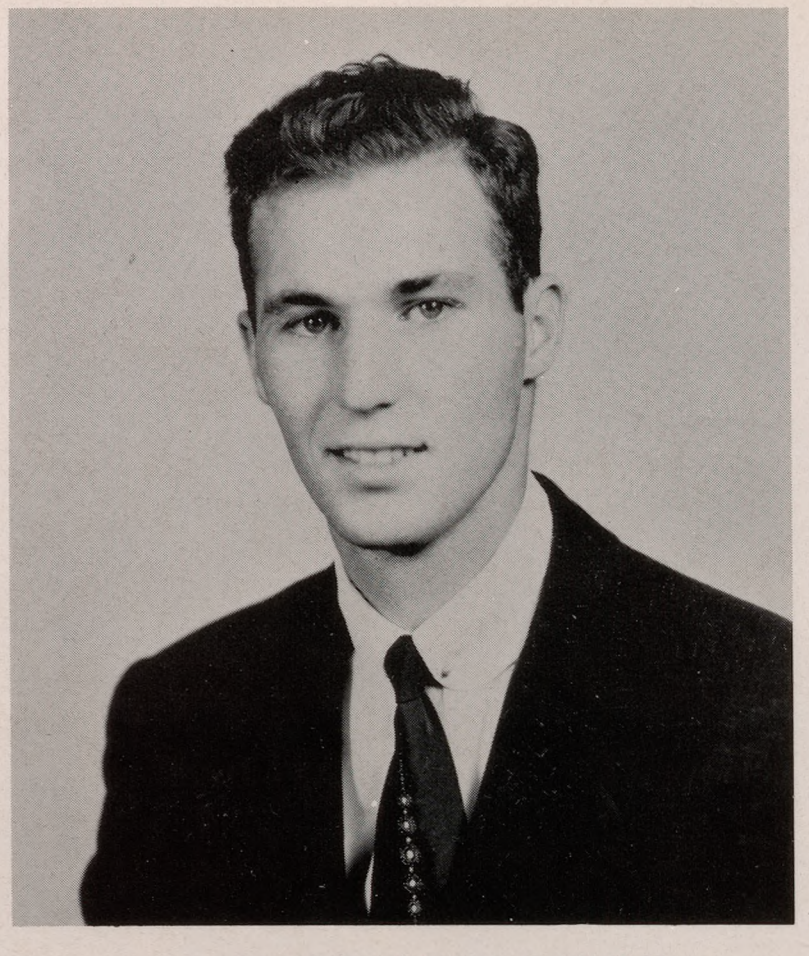

A nip was in the air when we journeyed down to the Auditorium-Gymnasium to hear the Secretary of Labor speak at the first Convocation. Soon our campus was honored by the presence of Governor Robert Meyner and former Governor Alfred E. Driscoll. The charter of the Medical and Dental School was signed and the new deans were chosen which made another first for our Alma Mater.

The Galleon Ball and the Queen of the Campus Dance highlighted the beginning of 1955. Engagements, weddings, commissions, and the Army soon became a reality. All too soon the sober strains of the Alma Mater drifted over the warm June-lit hills of South Orange and our college days were at an end. With a tear in our hearts we shook the hands of our classmates, realizing that we were now alone to face the challenge of living. As the years become memories, and the time spent within the walls of our University are only a glow, we will see the dividends of our collegiate careers. When we read these words at some future date, we will look back and smile because by that time we will have the answer to the immortal quotation . . . "When duty whispers low, 'Thou must,' youth replies, 'I can.' "

CLASS LEADERS

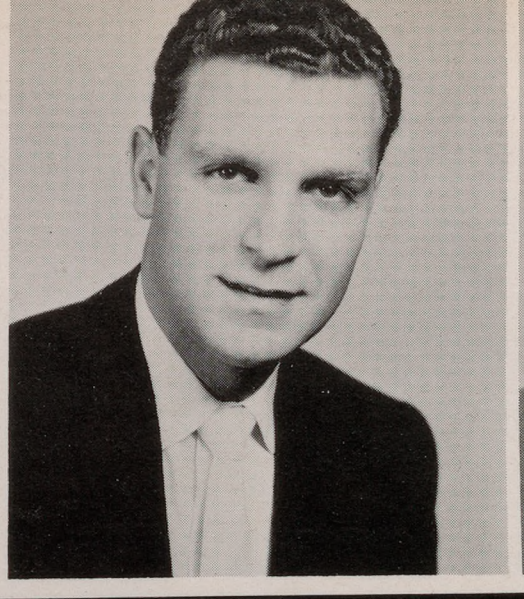

LAWRENCE G. LEYDEN

President of Seton Hall's Service Fraternity, Phi Beta Sigma. Under Larry's leadership the service fraternity was guided through its early formative period and firmly established.

JOSEPH F. GILCHRIST

Joe is easily one of the busiest men of the Seton Hall campus. His energies are channeled into many diverse fields of endeavor. Among other things, Joe spearheaded this year's March of Dimes Campaign.

ROSARIO F. FAILLA

A science major who can keep up with his studies and still find time to take an active part in the co-curricular program, Roy will be best remembered for treatment of the E.C.S.C.

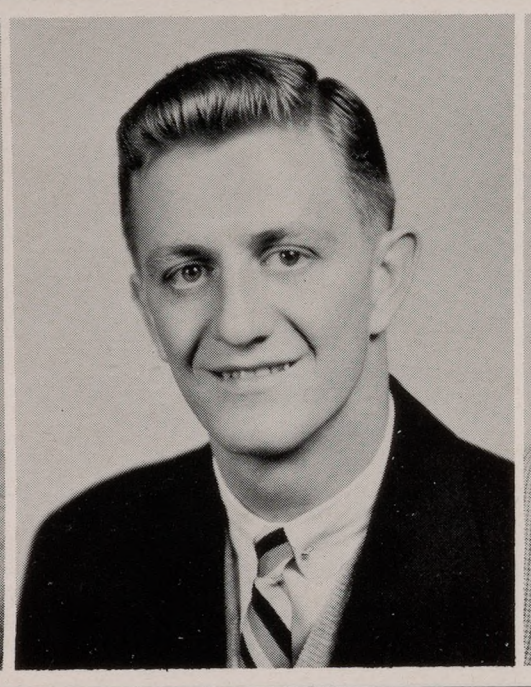

JAMES F. RILEY

Quiet, loyal, and efficient, Jim has made the post of vice-president of the Student Council a position of respect and authority by conscientiously implementing many decisions with which he himself was not in accord.

JEROME G. SULLIVAN

Easy-going, yet reliable, Jerry is well thought of by everyone. Active in all phases of student affairs, he will be particularly remembered for his efforts on behalf of debating at Seton Hall.

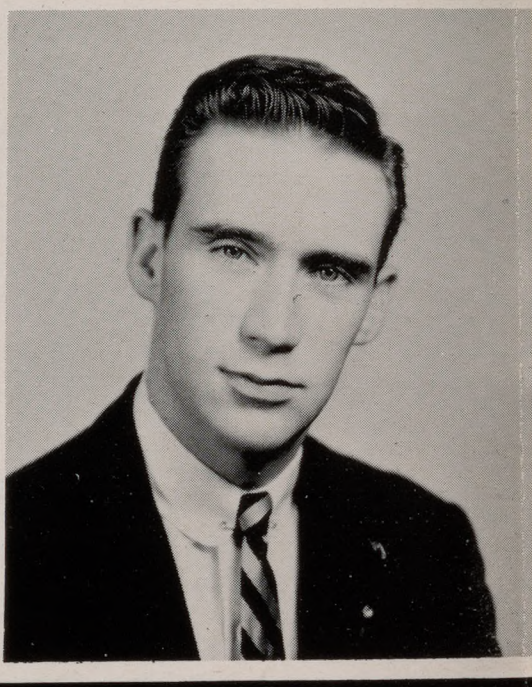

JOHN F. BODNAR

If it were necessary to sum up Jay Bodnar's personality in two words, these words would be dependability and generosity. Time after time Jay has volunteered his time and energies to any individual or group which might have need of them.

FRANK G. CANNATA

A real sparkplug of student activities, Frank eagerly assumes any job no matter how difficult or thankless which will benefit his fellow students. The Booster Club and the Buccaneer are but two examples of his many self-sacrificing projects.

RICHARD F. HENNESSY

Soft blue eyes that see deep into the causes and their effects mark Dick Hennessey as a man among men. Sincere and energetic, Dick has the spark that we hope will be kindled into real greatness. We are proud to number him among our friends.

PHILIP A. DONNELLY

Phil's expert knowledge of the way to run an organization played an important part in the success of the extra-curricular activities during his stay on the campus. The NFCCS and the International Relations Club are only two of the long list.

JOSEPH E. FLOOD

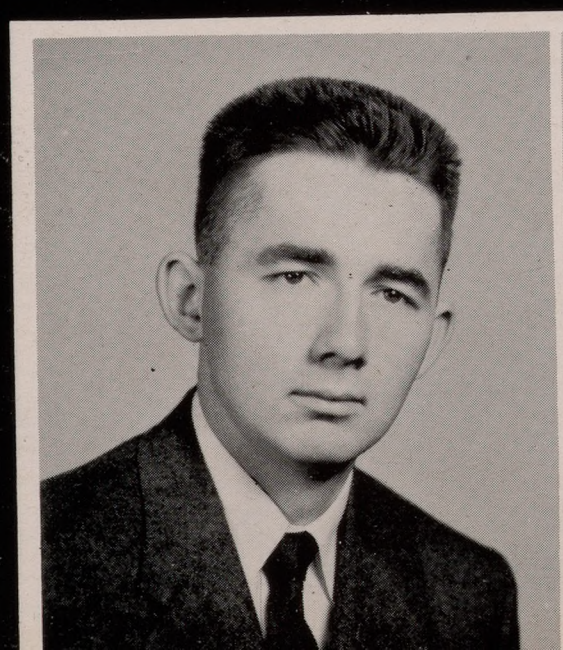

Mr. Everything is one way to sum up the accomplishments of Joe Flood. Former class president, Newspaper chief, prom chairman . . . There is nothing that has not felt the influence of Joe's talents.

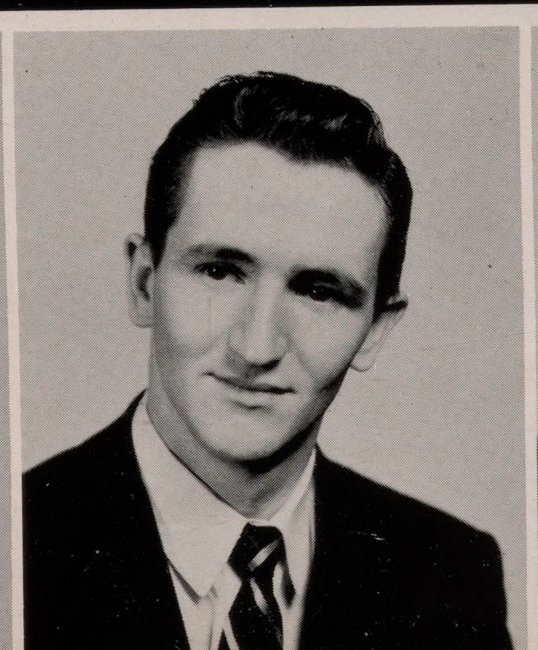

JOHN J. SMITH

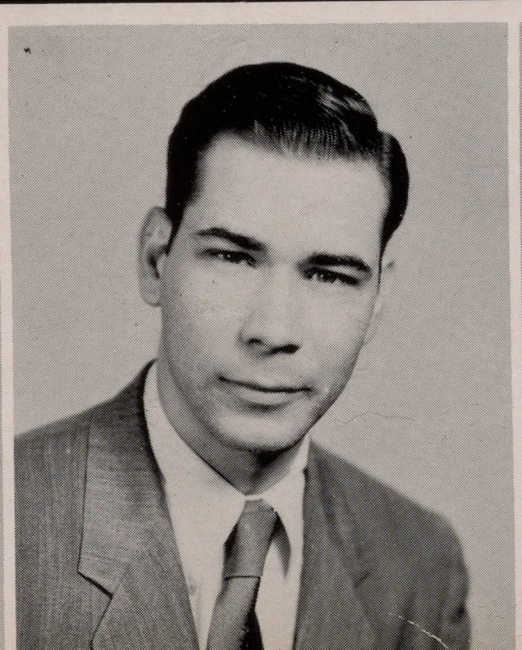

The common name of John Smith belongs to an uncommon man of extraordinary abilities. Jack, quiet, sincere and efficient became the President of the Academy of Science during what proved to be one of the most crucial years of its existence.

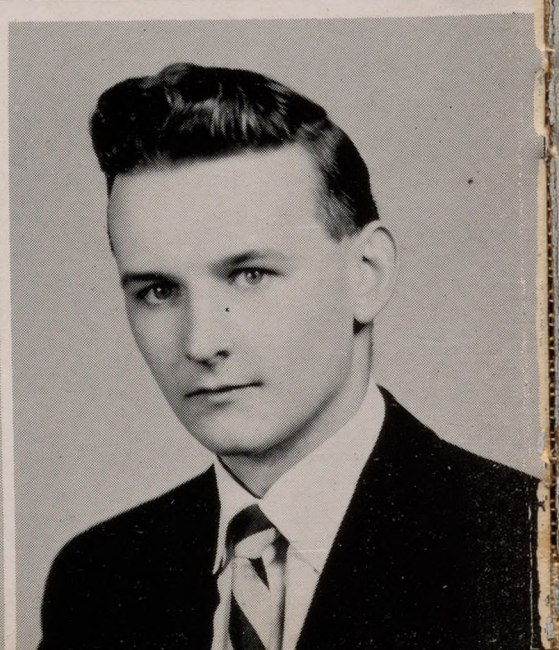

JOSEPH J. BRENNAN

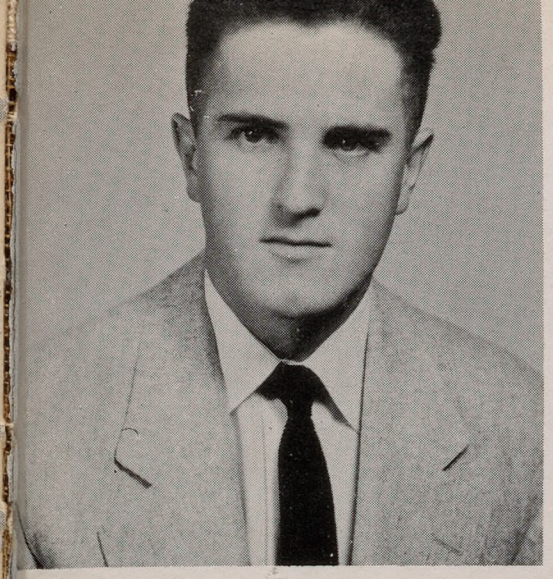

One of the most friendly men on campus, yet never afraid of a battle, Joe fought a hard campaign to reach the position of senior class president which he has filled so capably.

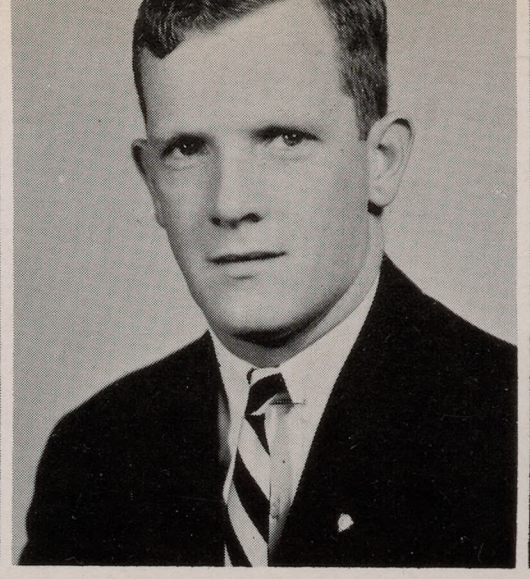

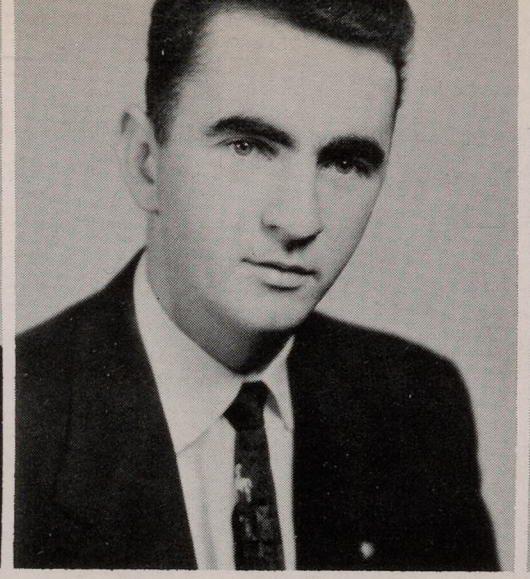

JAMES W. BLAIR

Jim is a quiet, steady worker who does his job well and gets little appreciation. Because of his conscientious diligence as treasurer, the finances of the senior class were in fine shape throughout the year.

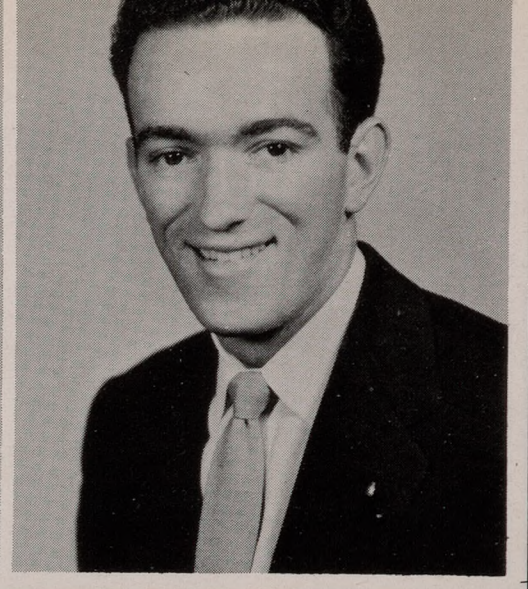

JOHN J. KENNELLY

No shrinking violet—those in his company are always well aware of his presence. Through John's efforts, Seton Hall's intramural program was expanded and permanently established.

ROBERT R. BLAKE

Soft spoken and reserved. Bob is one of the individuals who first conceived the idea of the Accounting Club at Seton Hall. He has devoted a good deal of time to the organization of this club which has become one of the largest on campus in only a few short months.

JOHN MORLEY

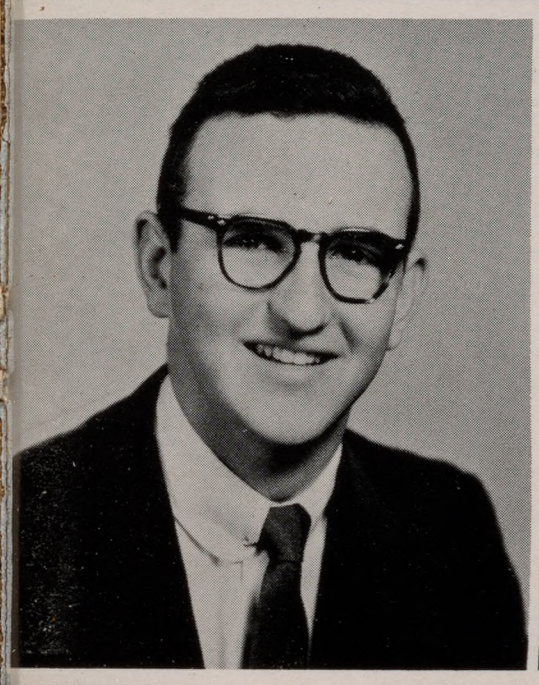

Easy - talking, fun - loving, and yet serious, Jack is a permanent fixture around the Student Affairs Department. His being founder and president of the extremely active Accounting Club is only one of his varied achievements.

Who's Who

Probably the youngest of the large nationwide honor organizations, "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and colleges," has, since the sixth year of its existence, enjoyed the active participation of an average of 600 institutions.

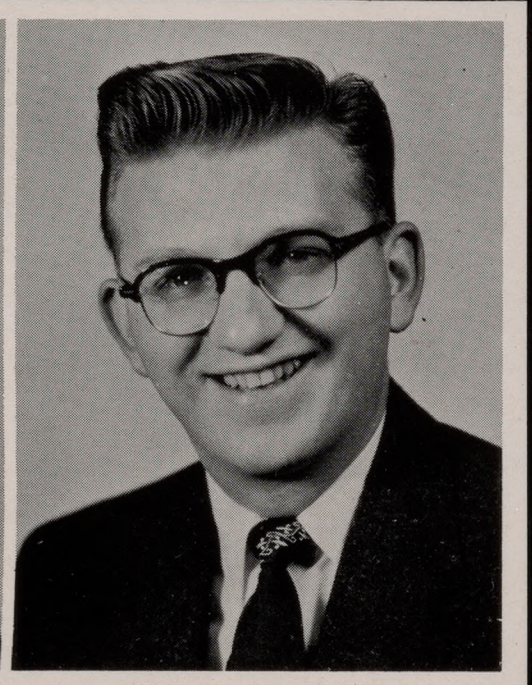

Recognition by "Who's Who" means that the student was, first, officially recommended by the University, then, accepted by the organization. Nominations are made annually by Seton Hall's Faculty-Student Cabinet, and they are requested to consider the student's scholarship, his leadership and cooperation in educational and extracurricular activities, his general citizenship, and his promise of future usefulness.

Each student who becomes a member receives a certificate of recognition awarded by the organization and presented at the school; recognition in the annual publication for the year during which he was selected, and a listing in the index under the college from which he was nominated; benefits of the Student Placement Service provided by the organization if he needs assistance in making employment contacts, or supplying other recommendations.

JOHN McELROY

The guiding hand behind Seton Hall's Chapter of the National Federation of Catholic College Students, John's character and high moral outlook draw him to the fore as an outstanding example of what Catholic education strives to accomplish.

A. JOSEPH PARRILLO

Joe's accomplishments at Seton Hall are indeed impressive. He has served as editor-in-chief of both university student publications. To head one of these publications is a noteworthy achievement; to have charge of both is a rare accomplishment.

PAUL H. KEAST

If we had to characterize Paul Keast, talent and wit would be the two words that could best describe his abilities. Active in theatrical productions both on and off the campus, Paul's portrayal of difficult roles mark him as a man to watch.

JAMES R. REARDON

Jim is one who gets everything without seeking it. He is constantly asked to fill positions requiring sound judgment and reliability, whether it be for baseball, class office, or high rank in the R.O.T.C.

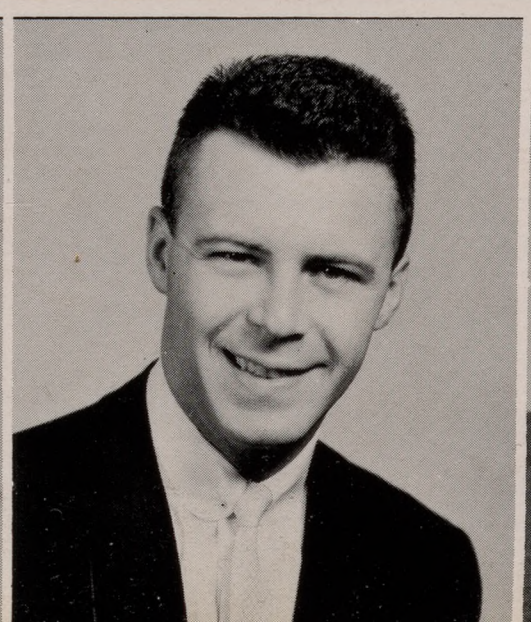

RICHARD W. KERNAN

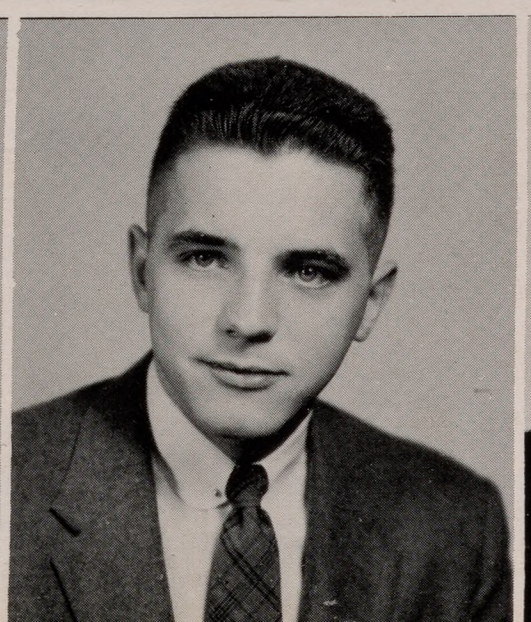

Seton Hall's dignified Student Council President. An able and efficient executive whose peer it will be difficult to find. Dick's administrative ability and exemplary leadership contributed to the efficient functioning of all student organizations.

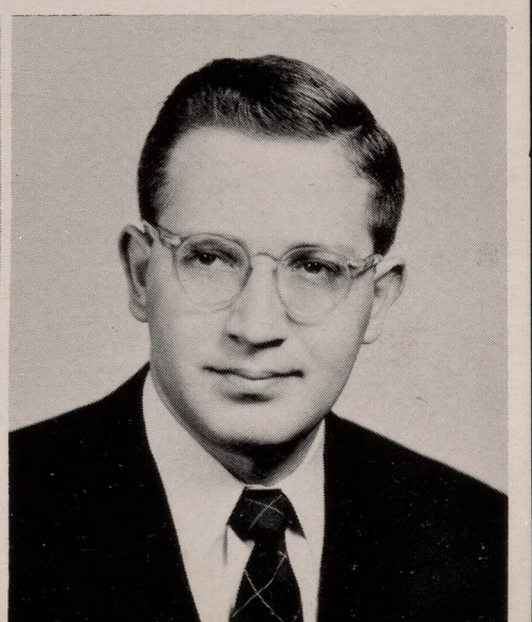

FRANK H. DONDERSHINE

Seton Hall's "man behind the scenes." Frank's efforts are responsible for the success of a host of campus functions and organizations. Rarely has he received the recognition he most assuredly deserves.

Underclassmen

JUNIORS

"CHUCK" DOEHLER
President

As Juniors we have found ourselves firmly regulated to the procedures and customs involved in the pursuit of academic attainments at Seton Hall University. With a couple of years of experience, obstacles formerly very difficult are now being readily taken in stride.

This year has been no exception insofar as difficulties were concerned. They have been minimized and easily handled due to a smartly organized class government. Thus under the direction of "Chuck" Doehler, its president, the class has risen to heights of unified efforts not readily attainable by such a large, heterogeneous body. There is a unanimity demonstrated in both thought and action.

The class elections clearly indicate the strong following and personal trust held by the class for its officers and delegates, as they were unanimously polled into office. This group presently includes Joe Lucciola, vice-president; Thomas Regan, treasurer; Charles Schrak, secretary; with Jerry Vogel, Ben Stanziale and Jack Halpin as Student Council delegates. This group formed the executive committee of the class. Many of the decisions taken by the class have been conceived, deliberated and propounded by this body.

With the organizational details in order the class's attention turned to the long awaited issue concerning the purchase of class rings. Following the usual lapse of time required to fill the orders, the rings proved to be sound investments and attractive decorations.

On the receipt of these rings many individuals realized that as a Centennial class there should be some definite type of article worn by all members of the class to show that they were members of the group. "Chuck" Doehler realized these sentiments and enlisted the aid of the class by petition to place an order of this type for a Centennial Class Pin.

There has been a considerable growth in numerous other facilities offered on this campus as well. A primary consideration has been that in accordance with the spiritual nature of the University. The normal spiritual manifestations of regular reception of the sacraments, of attendance at the Knights of Setonia and functions of a similar nature have been properly attended to. As a further exhibition of its beliefs, the class has purchased a large crucifix for display on the campus

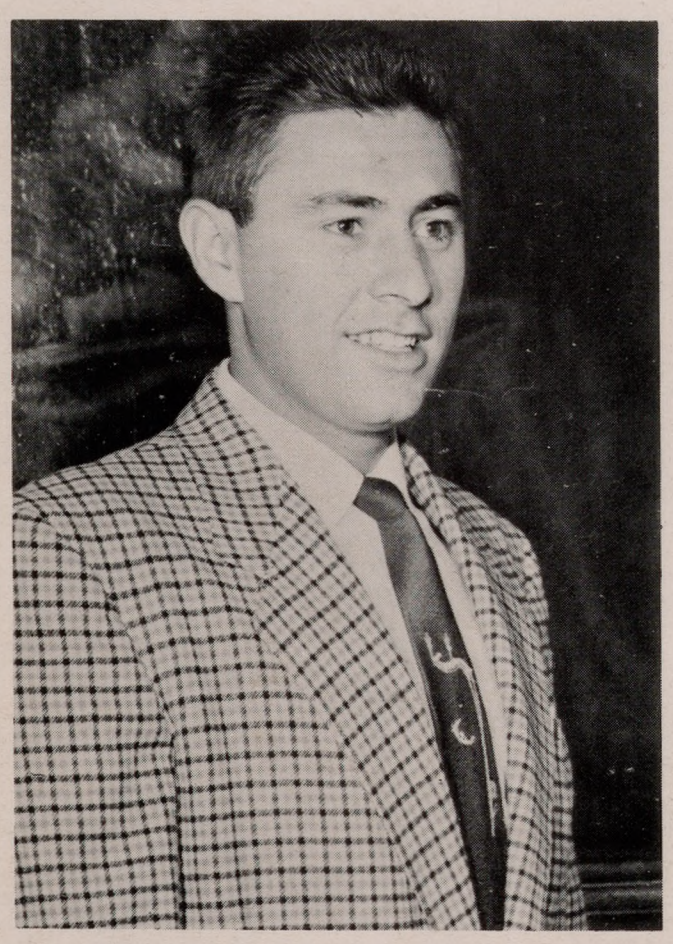

Another and very pleasing faculty of this well integrated group has been in the social sphere. Well precedented by tradition, the Juniors have shown themselves to be the social potentates of the campus. This prominence has been achieved by the exceptional success of both the "November Nocturne" and the "Starlight Serenade."

In athletics the Junior Class is well represented. There are more on this year's Pirate basketball squad than sophs or seniors. Stellar Ed Petrie, Seton Hall's All American candidate, who averaged 17 points per game, is the standout of the junior group. However, Richie Long, Bill Petrillo, Hugh Gallagher, Bill Runge, and Frank Minaya aided Seton Hall in its successful drive for an NIT berth in March.

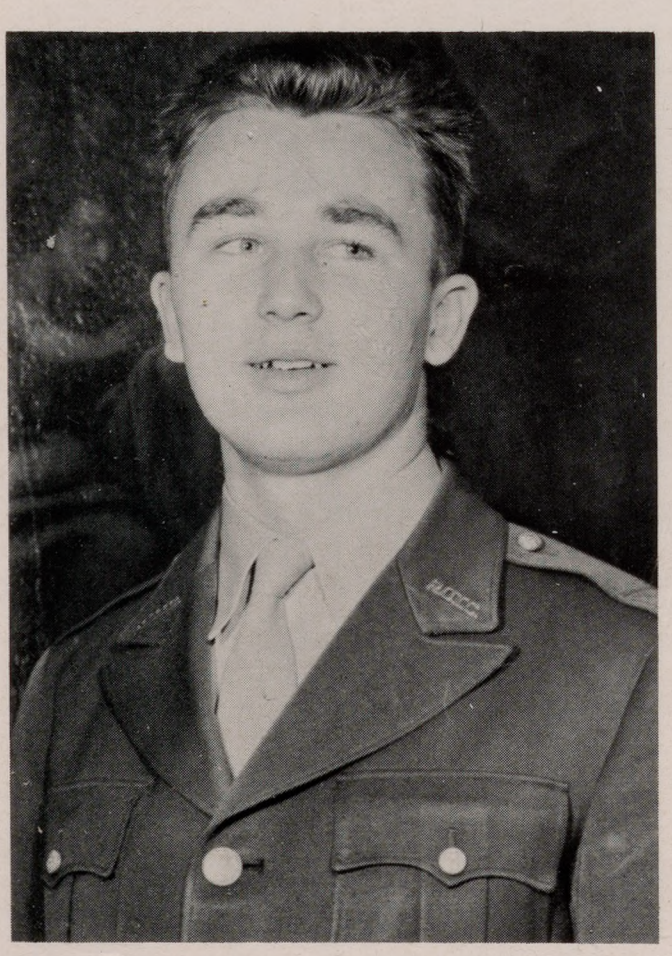

The track team, too, is stocked with juniors. Chick Maute, George Hesnan, Matt Hennessey, Cal Grupe, Jim Kissane, Charley Reilly and Jim Casey comprised coach Johnny Gibson's junior contingent. Maute and Hesnan were particularly outstanding during the indoor season, running legs on the mile relay.

Paul Jamison, Joe Lucciola, Joe Damoto, and Jim McGuire, Jim Dimino, Bob Carroll and Don Reardon are front line operatives for the Seton baseball nine this Spring.

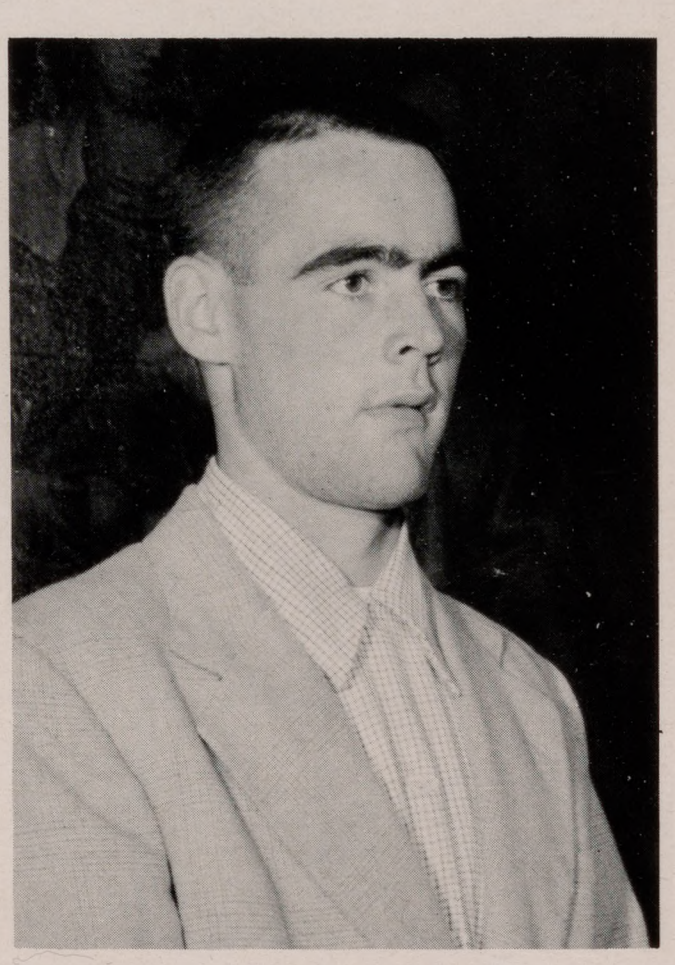

It is easy to see why the Junior Class is first in sports — first in everything.

SOPHOMORES

JOSEPH PECORA
President

From the president down to the last man who helped on a committee, the Sophomore Class worked and struggled through all the Class undertakings. With the help and guidance of Reverend Albert Hakim, our annual dance and the selection of Class Rings showed a bit of the promise that is ours.

Our first big project was the selection of a Class Ring. Fred Duffy, the class Secretary, was appointed Chairman of the Committee. He was ably assisted by Dennis Byrnes, Mickey Klemm, and Jack Milano. Together with the class a ring was selected after much deliberation.

Our dance, the annual affair that stands highest in the minds of all second year men, proved to be one of the best of the co-curriculars. At a conference, the President, Joe Pecora, and Vice-President, Dick Monago, selected two men, Jack Cooley and Lou Freda, to be Chairmen. Landy Mainero, Adrian Prince, Joe Pagano, Phil Cuocuzza, George Drabin, and Al Janoski were also selected to chair the various other committees. With the help of the Class, the gym was set in an altogether different atmosphere, and the dance was enjoyed by all.

The members of our Class proved their ability on the hardwood court as well as elsewhere. Dick Gaines, Charley Lorenzo, Marty Farrell, Johnny Keller, and Ed Chesney all comprised the nucleus of a team that won seventeen games and lost eight. A glimpse into the next two years would show the potentiality of two National Invitation Tournament winners with these men carrying the principal part.

A high percentage of the Class participated in many of the various co-curriculars of the Campus. Gary Nardino has been and will continue to be an asset to The SETONIAN. He also brought more honors to our Class when he was elected President of the New Jersey Collegiate Press Association in March.

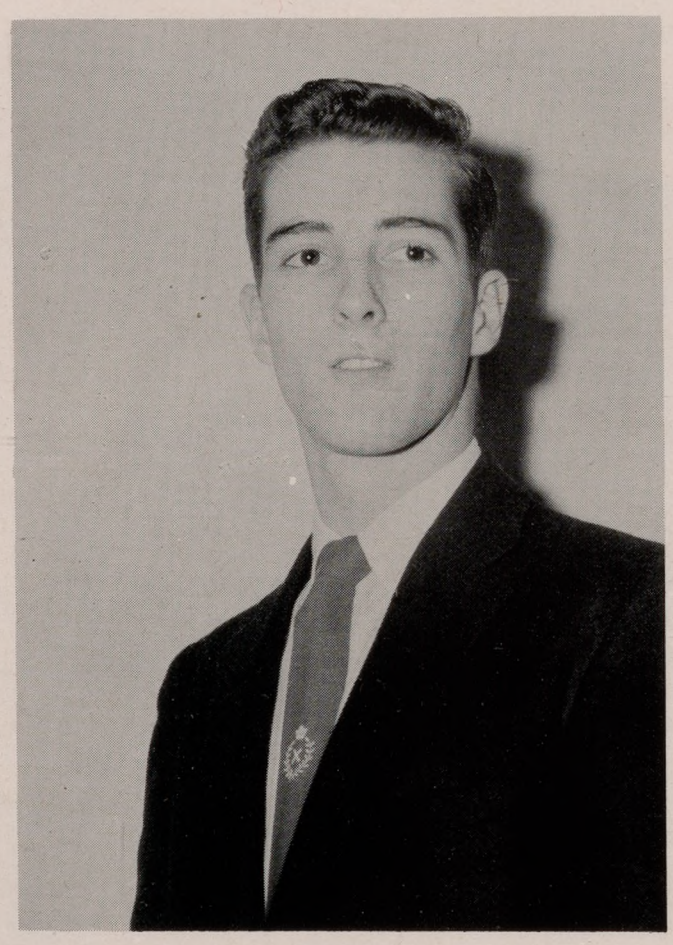

In the Student Council, Sophs Ted Swift, Bob DiCaprio, and Bill O'Brien led the way for many decisions that benefited the student-body.

Our Divinity students, the priests and teachers of tomorrow, were among the more outstanding to leave Seton Hall for Darlington. To mention a few, Jerry Graziano, John O'Connor, and Bill O'Brien, a Student Council Representative, are but a few that we are sure will make excellent priests and add again to the prestige of the Sophomore Class.

Looking back over the year, we can visualize that the Class of '57 will long be remembered in the annals of Seton Hall University. The spirit with which we undertook projects is but one aspect that should prevail over the Campus when we, the 101st graduating Class leave to go out into the world.

FRESHMEN

HARRY MIDDLETON
President

After graduating from high school and entering upon a new phase of learning on the university level, our first experience was the elections of class officers. Some resident freshmen students from Bishop's Hall organized themselves into a political party and entered the race for class office. Of the seven candidates on the "Progressive Frosh" five were elected to office, two were elected from the "Frosh Democratic Party."

In a pre-campaign meeting, the potential leaders of the Class of 1958 were told of the various rules which had to be followed. For instance, unethical or adverse campaigns were strictly prohibited; a maximum of $70 per party was to be spent for campaigns and a budget had to be submitted to the elections committee; no campaignings was permitted within a radius of 30 feet of the polls; any infraction of the rules would have resulted in the immediate withdrawal of the party concerned. Decisions of the election committee, under the chairmanship of seniors Paul Keast and Joe Donegan, were final.

With the beginning of campaigning, October 25, signs suddenly filled the cafeteria and flowery literature floated around the campus. Earnestly the frosh candidates sought the favor of their fellow classmates, and many promises of good, clean, sturdy governwere made. In any event, 735 frosh went to the polls in the two-day election, the largest freshman class ever to cast ballots.

On the social calendar the freshmen dance, "Spring Swing," was planned with great care. Since this was the only scheduled event for the year, everyone worked hard under the direction of John Clare, General Chairman. The dance, held during the spring of 1955, was successful and enjoyed by the many who attended.

In class government, Pat O'Connor, Student Council Representative, had a great deal of influence in the extensive intramural program which received so much praise on campus. Pat, with the aid of other council members, prepared schedules and playoffs for each sport.

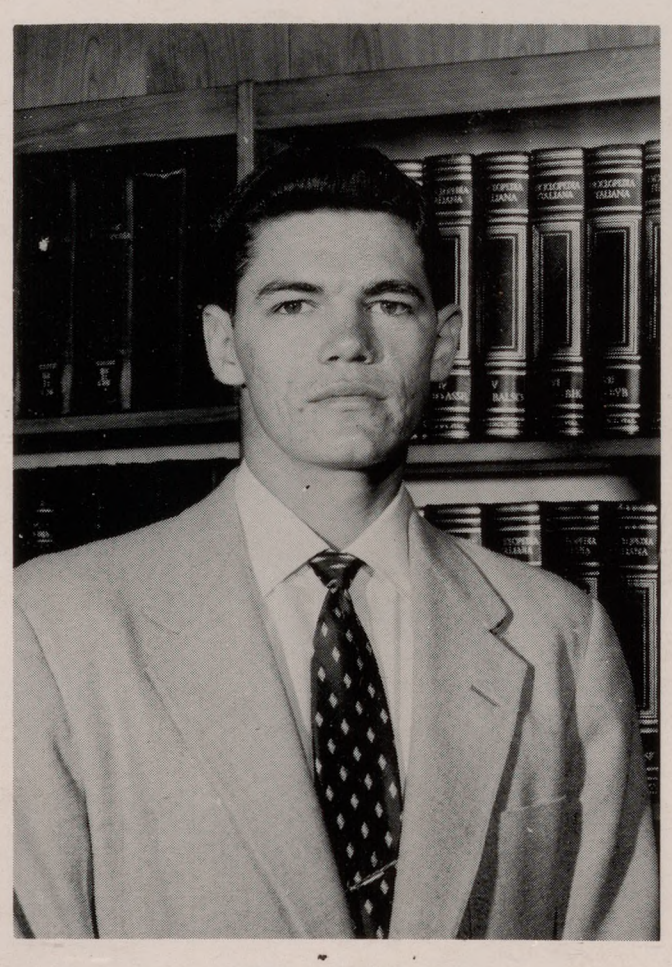

In the sports field our freshman athletes proved worthy opponents for all comers. The members of the basketball team showed great potentiality as future varsity stars. Stellar performers, such as Don Roberts, Paul Szezck, Tom Cross and Vinnie Ryan are almost assured of a spot on the varsity in the coming seasons. We are all proud of their 17-6 record during the 1954-55 season.

Spring found many enthusiastic freshmen competing for a starting berth on the frosh baseball squad. The team turned in a creditable season and many of the boys showed promise as future varsity performers. Having completed a successful season, we all look to the future Setonia team to bring glory to our Alma Mater.

Success was predominant in every phase of our first year and we all anticipate three more years of achievement here at Seton Hall University.

Of all the organizations sponsored by the Seton Hall Reserve Officers Training Corps, the Marching Band is one of the most important, as it is a necessary element in all the Reviews and Retreats. The Band, an integral part of the R.O.T.C., always precedes the unit in all parades. Additional functions of the Band are to represent the R.O.T.C. unit and Seton Hall University at special events, such as the St. Patrick's Day and the Armistice Day parades, which are not required formations.

The Band is composed of freshman, sophomore and senior R.O.T.C. cadets. Membership is open to any cadet who shows an interest in the Band, and has some musical proficiency. The senior Cadets that are in the Band exercise command positions. At present, the Band is commanded by Cadet Captain Vincent G. Colarusso; Cadet 1st Lt. Thomas Licciardi is the executive officer; and Cadet M/Sgt. Robert Scherer is the Drum Major.

Lt. Col. John B. McKenzie (retired) is the Band Director, and has had a great deal of experience in organizing and instructing bands. The Seton Hall R.O.T.C. Marching Band is one of the bands organized by Col. McKenzie.

The Band Moderator is Major Alfred F. Daubenfeld, who coordinates with the Band Director, Band Commander, and Lt. Col. Bartlett, the P.M.S.&T. of the Seton Hall Reserve Officers Training Corps Unit.

RIFLE TEAM

Fire they did! This year's rifle team shot its way right to a berth in the Class "A" Division of the Intercollegiate Metropolitan Rifle League.

Led by co-captain Murray Weingartner and Orlando DiRienzo in the scoring department, with the other co-captain Robert Karwel giving valuable assistance, the team came up with an enviable record against some of the toughest competition that it has had to face since joining the league several years ago.

Captain Joseph P. Fox performed a commendable job of coaching. He not only prepared the team for the matches this year, but with an eye to the future, prepared for next year's competition by the addition of four freshmen to the squad. Because of his forthcoming transfer in assignment, Captain Fox relinquished his position in March. The team completed the remainder of the season under the capable direction of Captain Carl Bordiga.

Although graduation means the loss of six men from the squad, Captain Bordiga can rely on the remaining men to produce a good season next year. The tradition of true sportsmanship of Seton Hall's students and the esprit de corps of the members of the rifle team were the prime factors in the achievement of the club's high standing this year. This heritage is expected to see the team through another highly successful season in the coming year.

PERSHING RIFLES

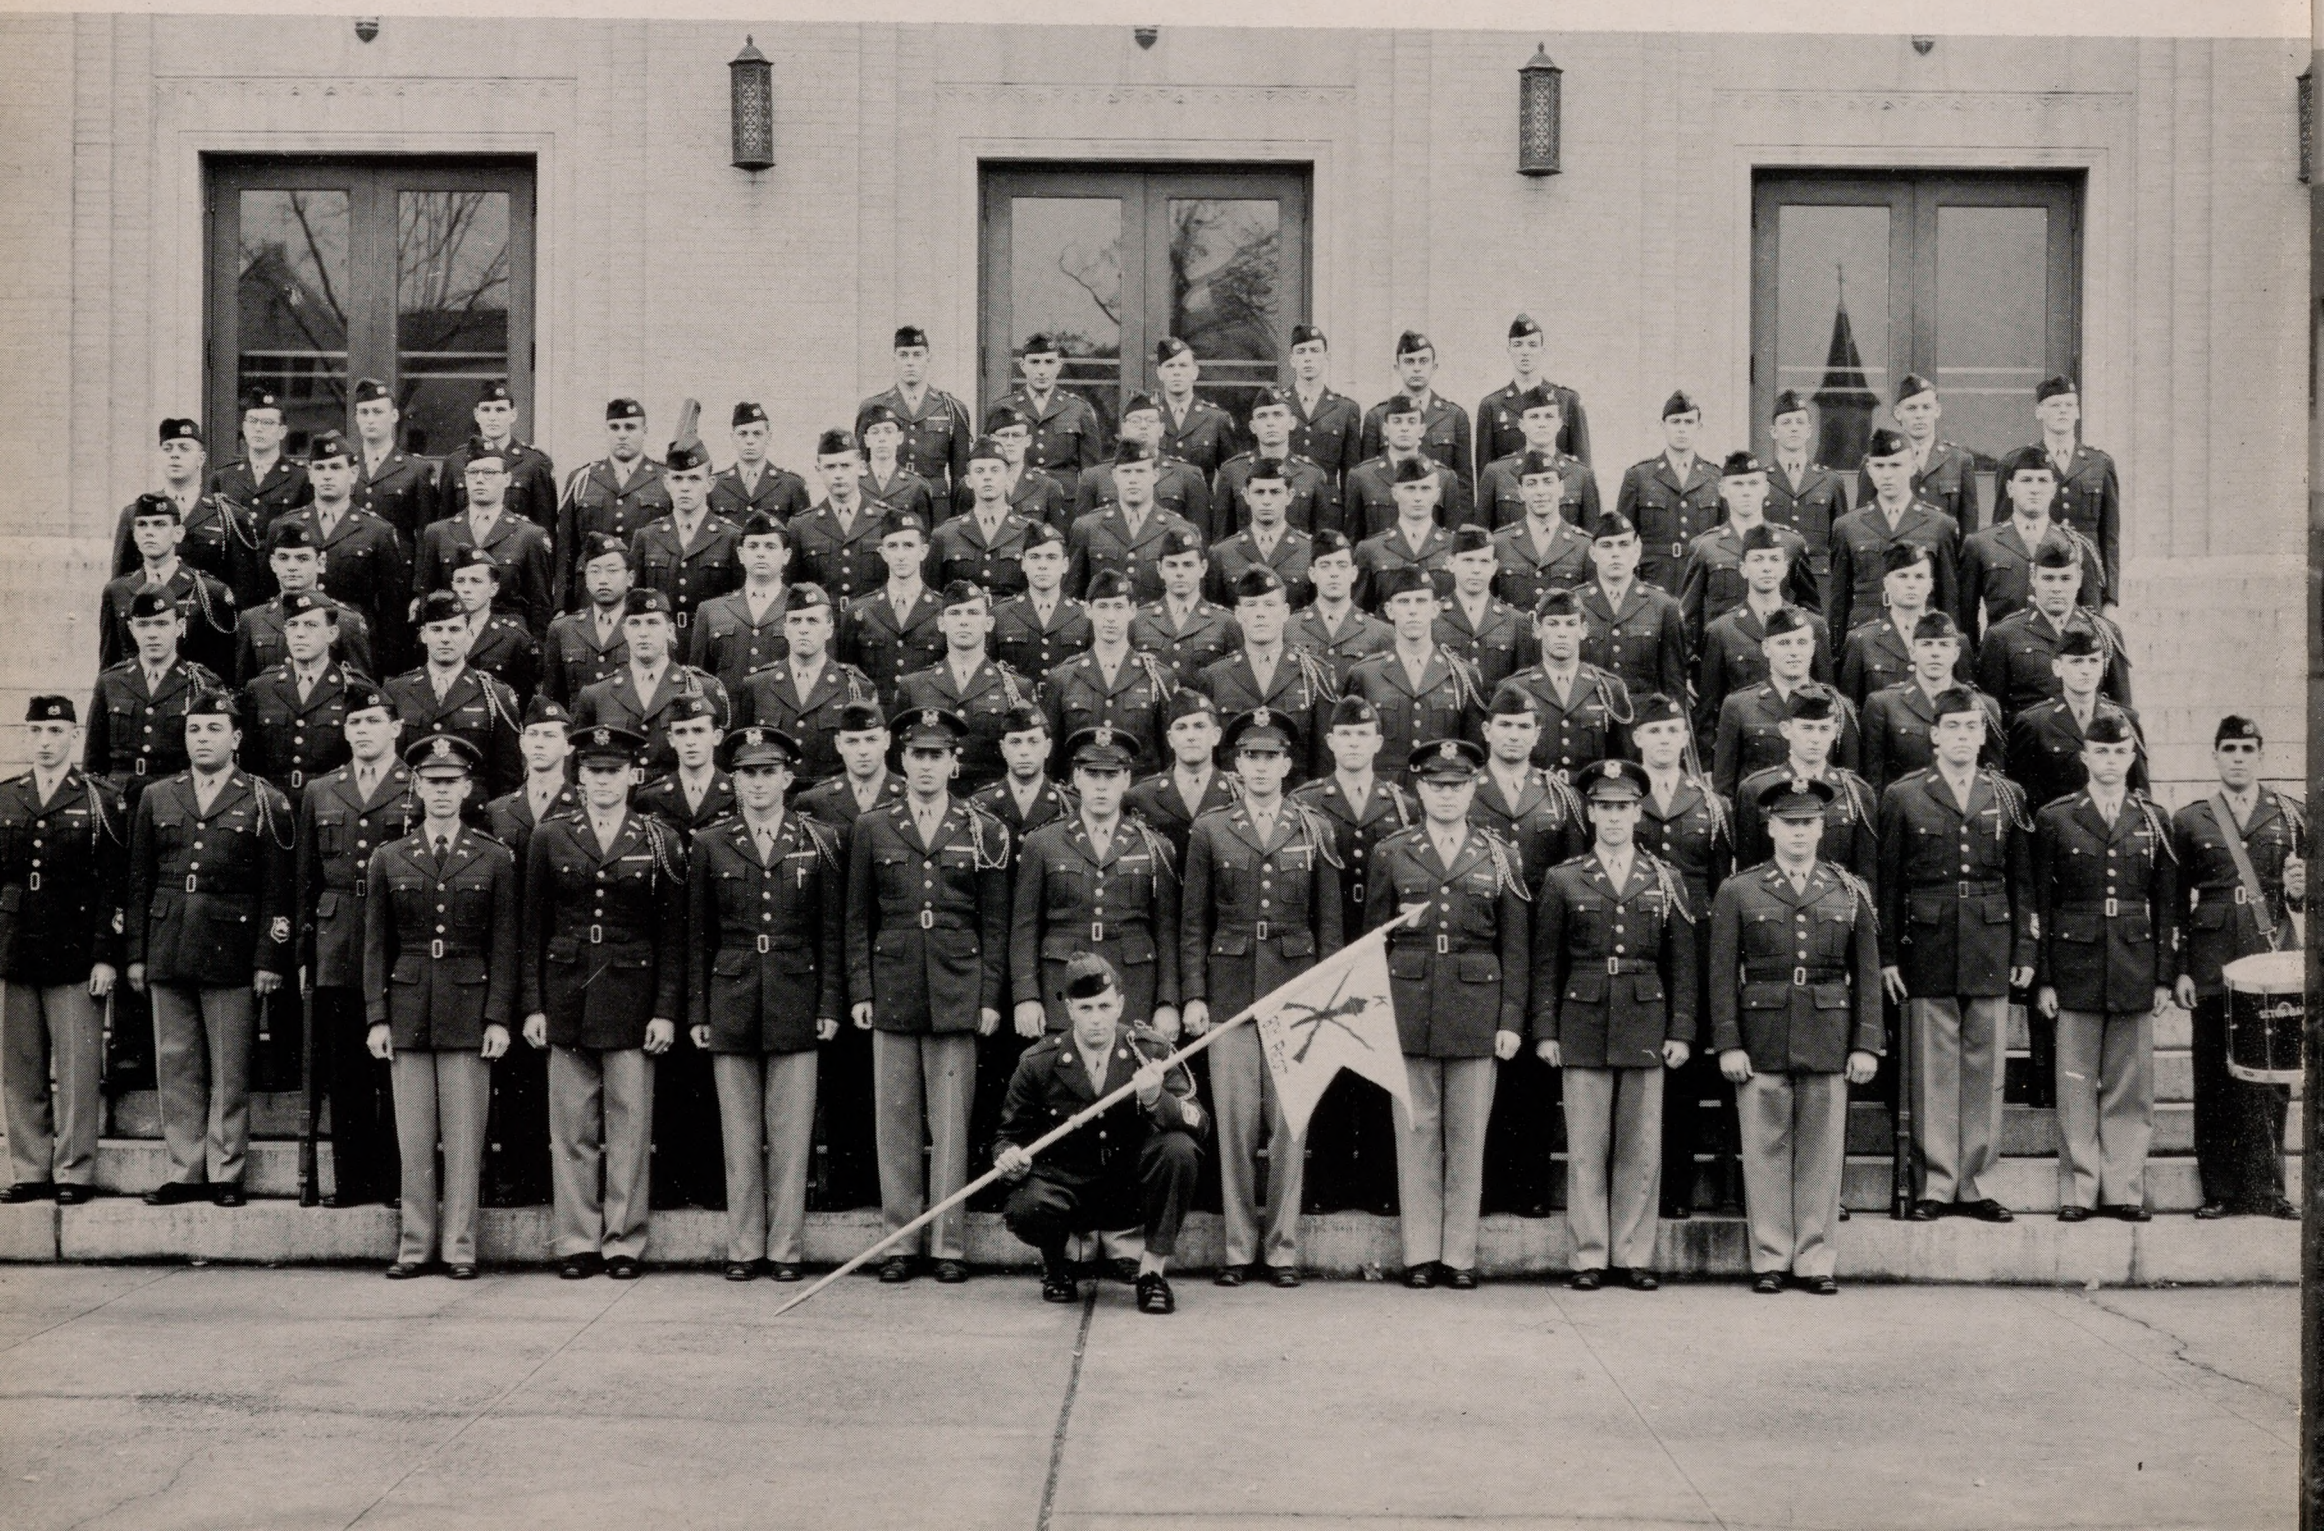

The Pershing Rifles is a National Honor Fraternity of the Reserve Officers Training Corps, which has as its objective precision in drill. More than this, it instills in the cadet greater respect for the uniform of the Army, allows him to foster brotherhood, and aids him in the pursuit of his commission with classes in miscellaneous subjects.

This year, Company "K," 8th Regiment, under the leadership of P.R. Captain Frank Schatzman, and the guidance of its moderator Captain Arlye Adams, U.S.A., has risen to a height never before attained.

They have been responsible for all parking and seating accommodations at the Convocations, were granted special privileges for having raised the esprit de corps in the cadet Regiment at the University, and represented the University in the St. Patrick's Day parade in Newark.

A proud salute also to P.R. 1st Lieutenant Cornelius Morris, and 2nd Lieutenants Thomas Bender, Nicholas Cerullo, Joseph Donegan, Francis Lynch, John Phillips, Arthur Schaub, Joseph Zarelli, as well as every man in the unit.

DRILL TEAM

The drill team of Company "K", 8th Regiment this year was under the able direction of Drill Master Cadet Lt. Joseph Zarrelli. He was assisted by Master Sergeant Charles Farley and Sergeant First Class Roy Hansen.

The twelve man drill team is composed mostly of freshman and sophomore cadets. Practice is held three mornings a week, twice during regular P.R. formations and once a week on its own time.

They also perform during parades, where they thrill the crowd with their fancy steps and quick movements. The P.R. drill team is an honor to Company "K" and the R.O.T.C. unit here at Seton Hall.

STUDENT COUNCIL

JOHN K. HALPIN
Junior

The rights of the many are a sacred trust. To govern justly and with compassion are the aims of the Student Council.

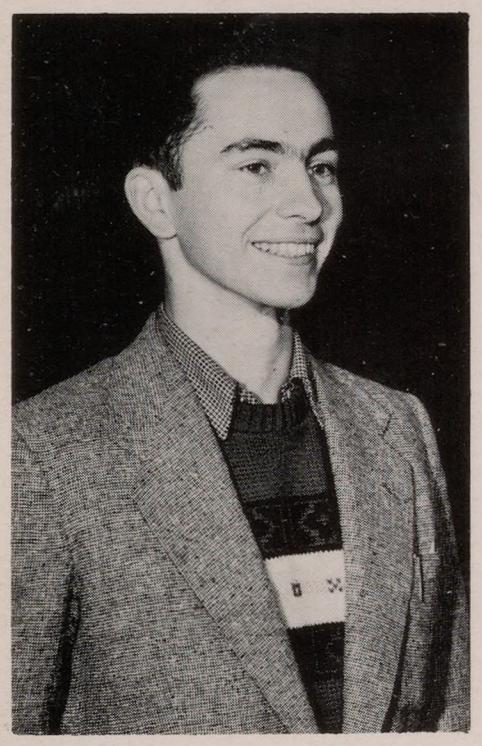

Under the able leadership of President Richard W. Kernan, the Council has seen rapid changes in Student Government. The new quarters occupied by the Department of Student Affairs and the student lounge are only two of the long sought improvements that this Council was the first to witness.

After convening the 1954-55 Student Council before the opening of the school year, the first problem on the agenda was the adoption of the extracurricular calendar. To assign a time and place for every undergraduate function is no light task especially when there are so many outside events that must be taken into account. Club meetings, class dances, proms, basketball games and a myriad of conflicting interests all had to be resolved before the academic year began. And solved they were for the Council was characterized by quick disposition of all problems.

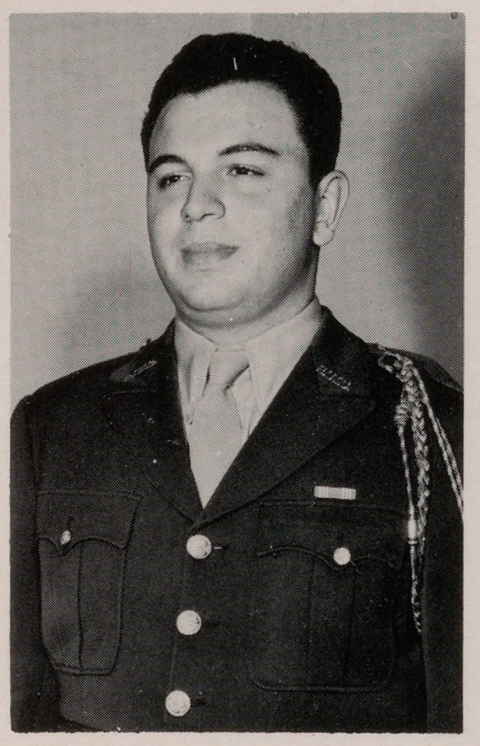

S.A.P.B., The Student Activities Placement Board, met with close to three hundred freshmen in order to place before them the experience of upperclassmen in the selection of the right clubs or activities.

To regulate and coordinate all of the extracurricular activities on the South Orange campus was the major concern of this and all previous Councils. New clubs were formed, old ones ran into difficulty. Some fell, others rose to new heights. All came under the careful eye of the delegates and representatives of the Student Council.

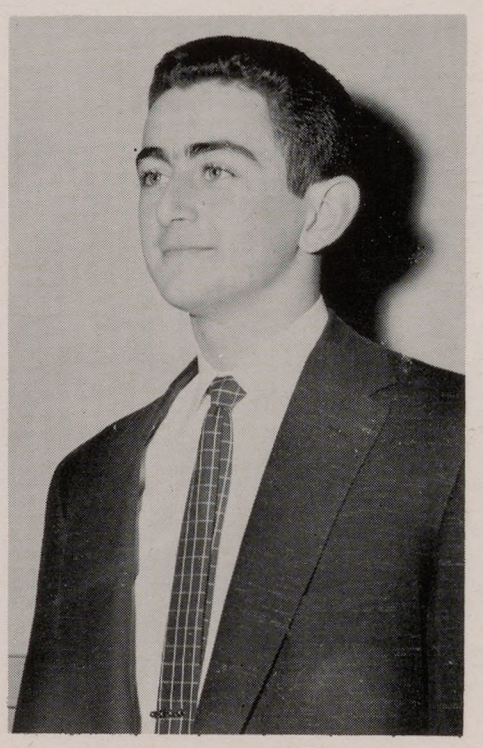

What will be the final report? What will be left undone? How will this Council compare to others in years past? Neither you nor I have the answer. Only the passage of time can say whether we were a success or failure. What we can say and be well proud of is that we tried to do our best in our way to make Seton Hall a little better.

FACULTY STUDENT CABINET

The Faculty-Student Cabinet is one of the most influential and hard working committees concerned with the student welfare. With members of the faculty, administration and student body, many of the undergraduate problems are resolved into just and amicable solutions. Among the more happy duties of the cabinet are the selection of the Who's Who and Cross and Crescent honors.

Under the guidance of Father Edward J. Larkin, the Dean of Men and Head of the Department of Student Affairs, the Cabinet first meets shortly before the end of the spring semester to settle the matter of finances for the coming academic year. Every one of the more than twenty-six co-curricular activities on the campus has submitted a budget of proposed expenses for the next year and each must be gone over carefully so that each organization shall be given a fair amount. This is a session that no one takes lightly and many a Setonian has seen the lights burning far into the night when this time of year turns around.

Conduct, policy, grievances are only a few of the items on the agenda of the Faculty-Student Cabinet meetings. All are attacked with the vigor of youth and all are resolved with the wisdom of years. This is the FACULTY-STUDENT CABINET.

Standing: Ben Stanziale, Secretary; Dick Kernan, President; Jim Blair, Vice-President; John K. Halpin, Treasurer. Seated: Father Clement A. Donovan, Vice-President in Charge of Student Personnel Services.

THE GALLEON

REVEREND JOSEPH W. RUSSELL
Moderator

At Seton Hall University there are many means of informing the general public of the activities that occur on the South Orange campus, and at the divisions in Newark, Jersey City and Paterson. The University has a Public Relations Department, an FM radio station, student operated (WSOU) a school newspaper, and the students themselves.

There is one publication at Seton Hall that is compiled for the individual, who upon reading and re-reading it, will recollect the days gone by, and have pleasant memories of old Setonia. This is The Galleon, the official undergraduate yearbook, and the individual primarily concerned, is, of course, the senior.

The Galleon is a big project, and in a sense is "tailor made" inasmuch as there is a limited number of copies published annually. The volume varies from year to year, depending upon the number of graduates; generally the number is between 750 and 950 copies.

Preparation and plans for the actual work to be done in the fall begins in the spring with the appointment of an editor-in-chief by the newly elected senior class president. The editor in turn appoints two associate editors, a managing editor, and a business manager. The five editors, along with the moderator, meet and select a photographer and publisher. A conference is then held with the two concerns contracted, and deadlines are set up.

As the summer months roll around many scenery shots are taken from any and every angle. Having in mind the thought "that there is nothing new under the sun," the editor's troubles are just starting as he tries to formulate ideas for the layout. Pictures that in any way might resemble ones that were taken the previous year are avoided. Still giving serious thought to types of pictures, the fall semester begins and additional editors are appointed to handle different aspects of the book.

Senior portraits are taken and the "scheduling in" of 800 seniors plus faculty members becomes a maze of names, dates, and appointment times. Swiftly, as time so often goes, portraits have been taken, proofs returned, and the first two-thirds of the yearbook is finished. All efforts are concentrated on the organizational activities, and sports sections, as another schedule is made up and thousands of words are written by the editorial staff.

Other small, but equally important tasks are performed throughout the year. The art staff feverishly submits art work that may be used here, there or anywhere; the advertising manager is constantly on the go soliciting advertisements; the circulation staff sends out correspondence for one thing

When the book does come out, it is accepted with great enthusiasm and becomes a part of the graduating senior, and is added to the Galleons of previous years, also becoming a part of the history of Seton Hall University.

KNIGHTS OF SETONIA

Eighteen years ago a group was started by a small number of students to foster more frequent reception of Holy Communion by Setonians. From this quiet and unheralded origin grew the largest and most vital organization on Seton Hall's campus, the Knights of Setonia.

Inspired and guided for several years by Father James Carey, the Knights became a symbol of the Hall and the type of Catholic men which it graduated. This year, Msgr. Walter G. Jarvais, campus spiritual director, took over supervision of the organization and has further strengthened the position of the Knights.

Each Thursday and Friday morning a Mass is offered in the chapel at eight o'clock at which hundreds of loyal Setonians demonstrate their realization of the tremendous part played in each Catholic's life by frequent reception of the body and blood of Christ. Confessions are heard before and during Mass to instill the companion virtue of frequent reception of the Sacrament of Penance. After Mass, the women of the Bayley Seton league generously provide a breakfast for all the Knights who received that morning.

Realizing the need of the clergy to rely on the apostolic action of the laity, Msgr. Jarvais appointed a number of volunteer students to act as Knight Commanders and Assistant Commanders to stimulate and maintain student enthusiasm, to distribute and collect breakfast cards, and to keep records. Especially active in this regard were Paul Keast and Philip Donnelly.

Whatever else a graduate has received in his four years at Seton Hall, the one thing that he is least likely to forget is the sacramental habit cultivated in him by his membership in the Knights of Setonia.

"The log allows 30 seconds for the next station break."

The radio station of Seton Hall University first went on the air in April of 1948. WSOU began its broadcasting under the direction and guidance of Reverend Thomas J. Gillhooly, who is still Director of WSOU and Chairman of the Department of Communication Arts. Thomas Parnham, who is the Chief Engineer of WSOU, was chiefly responsible for the technical installation of "The Voice of Seton Hall University." Mr. A. Paul Klose, who left a full-time occupation in professional radio in 1951 and is now a member of the faculty, handles the duties of Program Director.

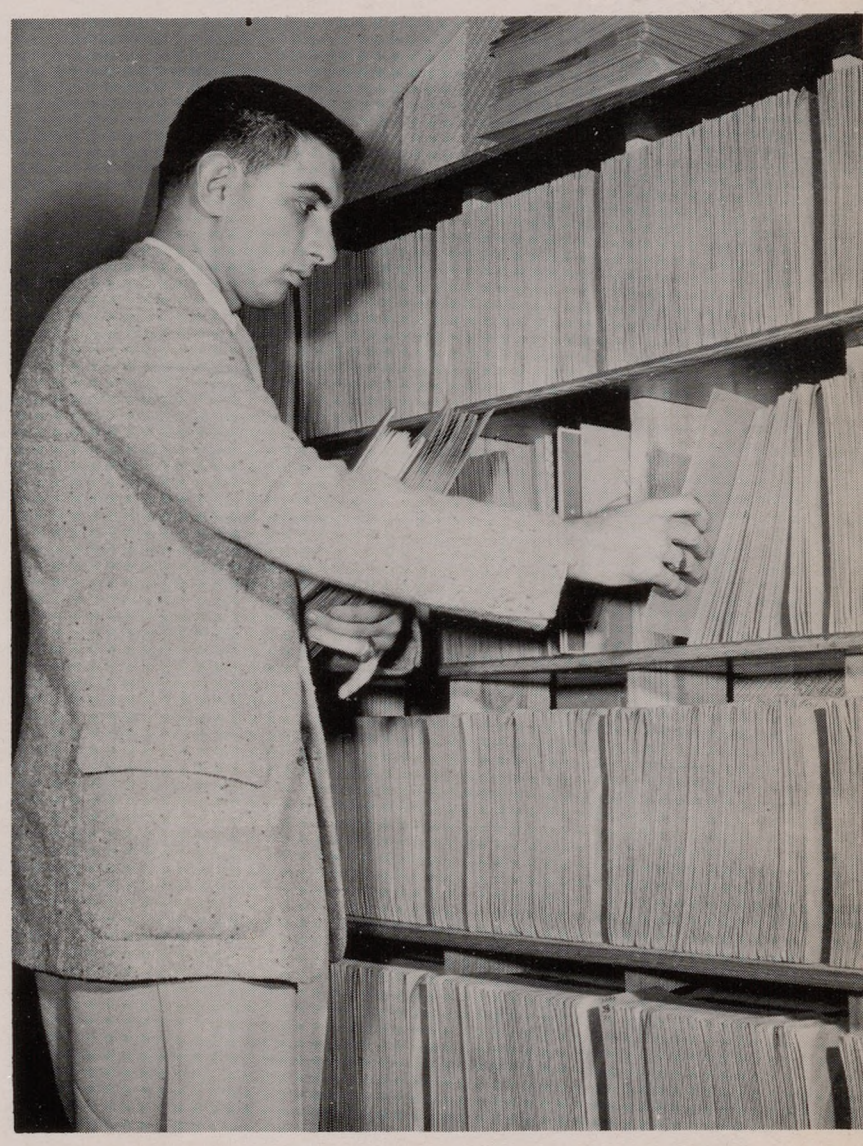

WSOU is the heart of the Communication Arts Department. It is a non-commercial, educational FM radio station, operated on a frequency of 89.5 Megacycles with a power of 2,000 Watts. Recent surveys show that there are over one million FM receivers in the broadcasting area of WSOU.

This student operated organization is guided by the faculty of the Communication Arts Department. It presents those programs of an educational and cultural nature not regularly provided by commercial stations. WSOU through its broadcast facilities offers thorough training and several years experience to the student majoring in Communication Arts. That this has proved valuable is testified to by graduates now engaged in the various phases of the broadcast industry.

The Setonian paused momentarily this year to look back over the thirty years of its career as the official undergraduate journalistic organ of Seton Hall. This was accomplished by means of a record shattering twenty-four page thirtieth anniversary edition. The special issue traced the growth of Seton Hall and The Setonian from their humble origins to their present exalted status.

Having basked in the glory of its past, The Setonian then moved forward to make more history. Under the leadership of its Editor-in-Chief, A. Joseph Parrillo, The Setonian once again met the challenge of covering the numerous activities of a great university.

Joe, together with his Executive Editor, Jack Hansell, and his Associate Editors, Bob Blake and Gary Nardino, has a great deal to be proud of. He produced a paper which both amused and edified the students and faculty of Seton Hall.

ST. THOMAS MORE SOCIETY

Bud Murray, Parliamentarian; Ed Galberczek, Student Council; Ronald Brown, Student Council; Charles Gibbs, Corresponding Secretary; George Hurler, Recording Secretary; Joe Brennen, Treasurer; Joe Donnegan, Vice-President; Mel Kantrowitz, President.

The St. Thomas More Pre-Legal Society boasts one of the largest and most active student organizations on the campus. The Society is named after St. Thomas More, a famed lawyer and one time chancellor in early English history.

Meeting once a month, the purpose of the Society is to acquaint future law students with a practical knowledge of law and familiarize the student with the different specialized fields of law which he can enter. In order to bring this about, during the scholastic year speakers are invited to give the students an idea of the advantages and disadvantages of a specialized field of law and general practice.

The main project of the year for the St. Thomas More Pre-Legal Society was a six week seminar, headed by Mr. William Dineen, moderator of the Society. The seminar was designed to aid the pre-law student in determining his qualifications for law school and to prepare him for the law school entrance examination. To accomplish this end, examinations similar to that of the law school entrance examination were given to each student, together with individual consultation.

The officers of the Society are: Mel Kantrowitz, President; Bob Backer, Vice-President; George Hurler, Recording Secretary; Joe Brennan, Treasurer; Charles Gibbs, Corresponding Secretary; and Norbert Murray, Parliamentarian.

VETERANS CLUB

Guided by the leadership of Mr. Resch, moderator and Alphonse Rylko, advisor, the Vets Club has, since its inception in the fall of 1954 grown to be one of the largest and most active clubs on the Seton Hall campus.

The aims of the club are diversified in such a manner as to serve the best interests of the veterans on campus as well as the university. The Vets Club undertakes such activities as discussions of problems and legislation that may confront the veterans under the G.I. bill. They aid in the rehabilitation of returning veterans by making the transition from khaki, blue, and green to college tweed as effortless as possible. One of the more noteworthy activities of the Vets Club is the interest they take in those men whose discharge from service did not mean their return home but rather relegation to a hospital bed to heal the scars of war. Members of the Vets Club make frequent trips to the Veterans Administration hospital in East Orange, providing the patients there with gifts, entertainment and perhaps most important of all—sincere interest.

The social activities of the Vets Club range from private parties in the homes of members to trips to New York City for football, basketball and baseball games.

The officers elected to lead the Vets Club in its activities are, Michael Taylor, President; Donald Ferrera, Vice-President; Joseph DeVito, Secretary; and Herbert Idleberger, Treasurer.

On January 17, 1954, Gamma Pi Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, first and oldest business fraternity, became the 82nd member of the National Chapter and Seton Hall's first fraternity. The formal installation was held at the Hotel Suburban in East Orange, N. J. Right Reverend Monsignor John L. McNulty was one of the honored guests, which also included the Grand President of Alpha Kappa Psi.

Alpha Kappa Psi was founded at New York University on October 5, 1904. Its objects are to further the individual welfare of its members; to foster scientific research in the fields of commerce, accounts, finance; to educate the public to appreciate and demand higher ideals therein; and to promote and advance in institutions of college rank, courses leading to degrees in business administration.

Gamma Pi sponsors professional programs with outstanding speakers from the business world and education, including profesional seminars, career conferences, business exhibits, educational motion pictures, and research surveys. It has a placement service to assist graduating seniors and alumni members to make desirable business connections.

Chapters conduct inspection tours of leading industries and business firms for the benefit of their members and students in commerce.

Holding to the proverb, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," Gamma Pi, as every other college chapter, holds a number of social events throughout the year which culminates with the Grand Cotillion in May of each year. The four Northeastern Chapters of Seton Hall University, Columbia University, New York University, and St. John's University participate in this great event usually held at one of the big hotels.

To qualify for membership a student must be enrolled in the school or department of business in which the chapter is located; signify his firm intention of obtaining a degree in commerce, economics, business administration, or commercial science; possess a grade average not lower than that required for graduation by the institution in which the chapter is located; possess satisfactory ability and potentiality for business success; and be interested in the advancement of professional ideals and activities.

S.A.M.

This student organization is affiliated with the National Chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management which is composed of prominent businessmen and executives across the entire United States. The University Chapter is sponsored by the Northern New Jersey Chapter of the S.A.M., which assists the student groups in planning activities and securing speakers. The discussion and general programs of the chapters encourage and stimulate interest and understanding in the scientific principles of management. Through the various committees of this organization it is possible for the student to link his theoretical knowledge with that of practical application.

The student chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management has always had the reputation for being one of the more active organizations on the campus. Through the year business activity was carried on by means of plant trips, speaker meetings, social events, and was highlighted by the annual Award Dinner. At this dinner the graduating seniors receive awards in accordance with the degree of activity in the organization during the time that they were members. Several members also attended the annual Spring Conference which was held in New York.

By means of a very successful membership drive the chapter rose to the largest number of members since it was founded several years ago. The Society selects its members from the students in the School of Business Administration. The Officers for 1954-55 were: Hugh F. Schweitzer, President; Edward A. Heselton, Vice-President; Michael J. Slane, Secretary; and Anthony S. Biczak, Jr., Treasurer. The moderator is Mr. William J. Doerflinger. The Board of Directors is made up of the four officers, the moderator, and four other elected members. These four men were: Robert Baskes, Bernard Kohanski, George Seifert, and William Tortoriello.

PRESS CLUB

The Press Club of Seton Hall was organized to help the Public Relations Department with its crushing burden of work. The members, guided by Mr. Larry Keefe, Moderator, are able to help by doing many of the small jobs which are necessary but do not require the personal attention of the permanent members of the department.

During the basketball season the Press Club men do their heaviest work. They keep various statistics such as shots and rebounds, a running account of the game, a box score, the time played by each player, etc. They also help the reporters by providing them with facts and figures, getting them things they need, or aiding them in any other way necessary in order to get the news out rapidly.

Through this work the members learn a little of the "ropes" of the newspaper and publicity business. This provides a valuable and rewarding experience for those who participate. The basketball staff gets an extra reward in that they have an excellent location to watch the home games, and also, they get a chance to go with the team on some away games.

In addition, outside speakers are brought in to address the club. Greg Hewlett, publisher and editor of the South Orange-Maplewood "News-Record," Joe McLaughlin of the Newark News, and Mike Gavin, sports columnist of the New York Journal American were the most recent speakers to appear before the Press Club. They gave the members tips on newspaper work, and told many colorful narratives of their own experiences in the field of journalism.

According to the constitution of the Press Club the Chairman of the Board of Directors is the current editor-in-chief of The Setonian, who was Joe Parrillo. On the Board of Directors are the associate editors of The Setonian, Jack Hansell, and Bob Blake; Managing Editor, Jack Morley; and Business Manager, Joe Morano. Gary Nardino and Jim Kissane headed the sports department, with Morris Straitman and Dick Monago heading the news department.

Bob Blake, member of the Board of Directors, Larry Keefe, Moderator and Joe Parrillo, Chairman of the Board of Directors, discussing future plans.

MARKETING CLUB

One of the most active organizations on campus, The Marketing Club, which is a charter member of the American Marketing Association, strives to bring to the student a better understanding of marketing.

The major aim of the club is to develop sound thinking in marketing theory and more exacting knowledge and definition of marketing principles.

Officers of the Marketing Club were elected in May, 1954. John Bodnar was elected President; James Slevin, Vice-President; Richard Hennessy, Treasurer; Paul Lavin, Recording Secretary; Richard Mawker, Corresponding Secretary; and Jack Hansell, Publicity Chairman. Professor Frederick Segel is Moderator.

Activities began with a membership drive under the direction of Vincent Iacopino which brought the membership to more than 90. In October, in compliance with the membership drive, a picnic was held to bring a closer relation between students and teachers.

In November a "mixer" was held in the Little Theater and small gymnasium. Mr. Robert Spinner, President of Market Scope, a Research organization, was the guest speaker. The affair concluded with refreshments and a dance.

In December an industrial tour was conducted at Ballantine Brewing Company in Newark.

During January, Mr. William Sheridan, personnel manager of the R.C.A. plant in Harrison came to the University to explain the purposes and benefits of the American Marketing Association.

In February, John Bodnar, Richard Hennessy and Robert Moore, representing Seton Hall University attended the seventh annual convention on "Careers in Retailing," held at New York University's School of Retailing.

The activities for the Spring Semester included a radio broadcast over WSOU, a field trip to the Lincoln-Mercury Plant in Metuchen, a talk by Mr. Edward Stover, head of the Research Department of Reach and Bates Advertisers, and a father and son dinner at the Military Park Hotel, Newark. The school year was concluded with the organization's annual spring banquet.

INSURANCE CLUB

Mr. Gustave Goertz, Moderator; Paul Malague, President.

The Insurance Club is designed primarily to provide a working organization for those students interested in insurance. The club is not restricted to those majoring in insurance only from a professional standpoint. Anyone with a personal interest may become a member.

As any other campus organization, the Insurance Club provides a working background to supplement the theory learned in the classroom.

Since its inception in 1951, the Insurance Club has come a long way. Under the guidance of Mr. Gustave Goerz and its officers Paul Malague, President; Lou Deck, Vice-President; Edward Heselton, Secretary; and Charles Keating, Treasurer. The club has presented films, speakers, and regular business meetings to the interest of everyone.

Through the various media at its disposal, the Insurance Club offers members opportunities to meet men in the field of insurance. Important contacts develop from these meetings which often result in obtaining positions with these organizations. Besides interest in the professional activities of the club, it also has its social function at the end of the scholastic year.

This year closed the fourth successful year of the organization on campus. It is hoped that the Insurance Club will continue to be a source of knowledge to its members in the future.

I.R.C.

The International Relations Club is an organization which has as its purpose the stimulation and dissemination of information and opinions associated with foreign affairs. It provides a medium for the exchange of students' views and for the study of ways of improving international relations. The Club is dedicated to the development of people-to-people friendships as the most effective method of securing world peace.

Bi-weekly meetings are held, both for student discussion and for addresses by leading authorities in the field. Members of the Club participate in intercollegiate conferences on foreign policy. The Club is a member of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations, and consequently many of its activities are centered around the world organization.

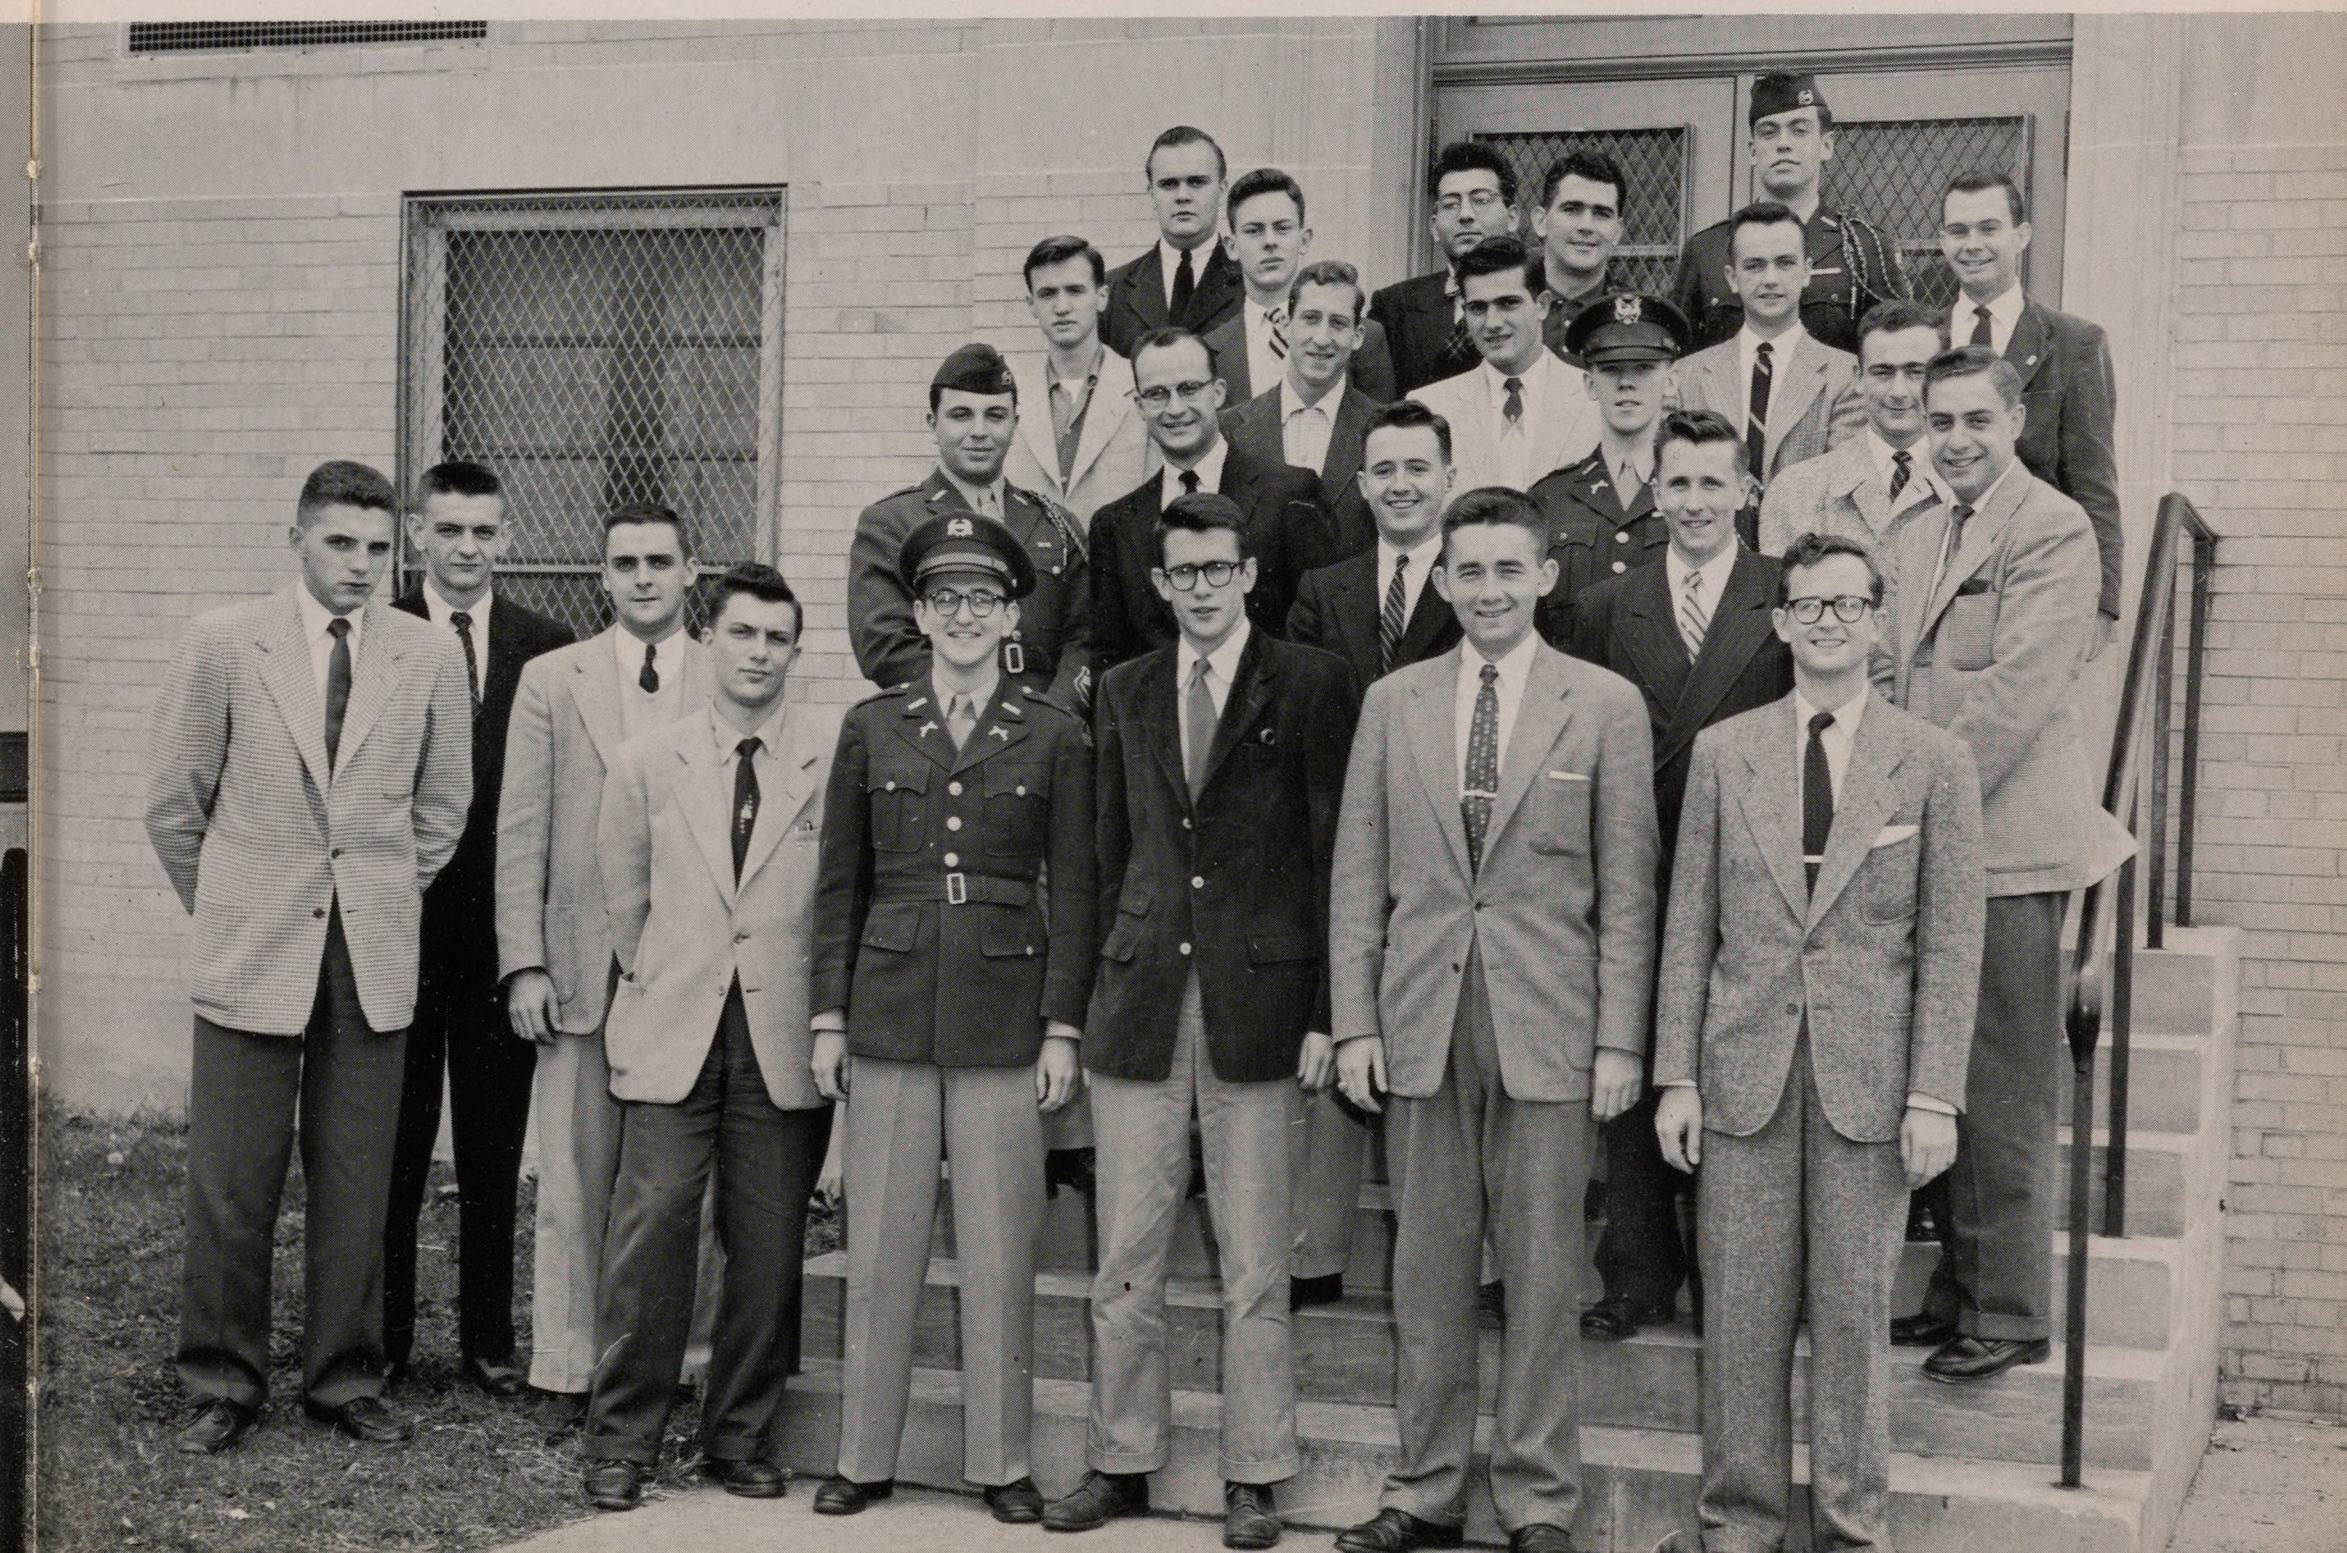

The International Relations Club regards the promotion of international student friendship and goodwill as one of its primary tasks. Membership is open to all students on the campus with a genuine interest in foreign affairs.

The officers of the International Relations Club are: President, Thomas Brennan; Vice-President, Peter Murray; Secretary, John McLaughlin; Treasurer, John Maye; Librarian, John Goceljak; Student Council Representative, Drew DeCoursey. The Moderator is Dr. Russell E. Planck.

William Kearney, Dr. Russell Planck, Moderator; Phil Donnelly, President; and Robert Lawrence, Treasurer.

ACCOUNTING

It was just one year ago last March that the idea for an Accounting Club was conceived by its Moderator Mr. Charles J. Weiss and President John Morley. Impressed with the need for an informal and attractive means for accounting students to gain first hand knowledge of the Accounting Profession, these two men put their heads together and came up with an organization that was received with splendid popularity. In the short period of one year it has grown to one of the most active groups on campus.

With competent leadership and secure support of its members an extensive program was set up and carried out during the first of its existence. Though the aid of field trips, motion pictures, the gap between the theory of the classroom and the practical work of the business world was filled. The student was better able to grasp the importance of his chosen field and his responsibilities to the past collegiate community as they are reflected in the Accounting Profession. The social calendar included several parties, a banquet, and was highlighted by an Annual Award Dinner at which the club presented a plaque to the outstanding graduating member. The award was given on the basis of grades received in Accounting over four years at Seton Hall, and the grades received on the American Institute of Accountants Test.

Some of the leading organizations that contributed greatly to the progress of the club were the Federal Government's Accountants Association, the Hyatt Bearing Division of the General Motors Corporation, International Business Machines, The American Institute of Accountants, the Irvington Chamber of Commerce and the stock firm of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane. Without their help much of the fine program of the Club could not have been carried out.

Proper credit for success of the organization should be given also to its Vice-President, Clarence MacTague; Secretary, Robert Blake, and the many men who worked on the various committees.

Under the zealous direction of Mr. Joseph A. Murphy, the Seton Hall University Men's Glee Club continues enthusiastically its cultural work, enjoying simultaneously the excellent opportunities that singing affords. A tribute to Mr. Murphy's genius, in the capacity of moderator and director, is the progress and popularity the organization has enjoyed since his appointment in 1947.

The place of the Glee Club in the life of the University cannot be filled by any other agency, for it ranks high among the best organizations on the campus. As a cultural factor and an educative device, it cannot be too highly praised, while as a form of recreation it appeals to all students regardless of whether they actually take part in its productions.

This year the Men's Glee Club has participated in more than twenty formal and informal concerts which were given throughout New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. On May 14th, came the highlight of the concert season with the presentation of the Annual Spring Concert. The success of this affair was due to the members' intense pride in the organization and to the encouragement shown by its officers.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

An interesting cycle of events has kept the French Club well occupied since its initial meeting this year. Under the moderatorship of Mr. Edward J. Henry, the club fosters and encourages interest in things French.

In bi-weekly meetings, the French Club has listened to impressions of France and its people. Father Field and members of the club, who have visited that country, led discussions following the informative talks.

The members presented a French comedy, "The Two Blind Men," which was dramatized over station WSOU. The program was the first of two given by the club during the year.

"French Night," the highlight of the club's calendar, featured a play offered in the Little Theatre. Dancing and refreshments were also enjoyed during the evening.

SPANISH CLUB

Dr. Eden E. Sarot, Moderator, and the officers of the club arranged a pleasant series of projects for the Spanish Club this year. Planning, in conjunction with the Spanish Club of the College of Saint Elizabeth, provided both organizations with enjoyable and interesting activities.

At a tea-dance in St. Joseph's Hall at Convent Station, preparations were made for many intra-club functions. As a result, a field trip to the Spanish Museum in New York and dinner at "El Fundador," were successful and memorable events.

ITALIAN CLUB

Mr. Carlo Prisco, club Moderator, and members of the Italian Club have gathered at meetings throughout the year for the purpose of gaining a greater appreciation of Italian cultural achievements.

The club regularly visited the Italian House at Fordham University, taking part in discussions and enjoying the general atmosphere, which is one of genuine Italian flavor.

Furthermore, members of the club may be considered as real authorities in the fields of Italian food and entertainment.

CATHOLIC ACTION SOCIETY

According to Pope Pius XI, Catholic Action is the participation of the laity in the Apostolate of the hierarchy.

Its four characteristics are expressed in the definition: the work of laymen, an apostolate, organized in a definite way, under the command of the hierarchy.

Its purpose is the same aims as that of Holy Mother Church—the sanctification of the individual, the rechristianization of society and the restoration of all things in Christ.

Its major activities during the past year were as follows: daily recitation of the rosary at 12:40 p.m. in the main chapel; for the past few months, the evening rosary in the dormitory chapel; a brief tale about Mary's Mint delivered to the Student Council; being instrumental in having each club on the campus select a patron saint and attend monthly Mass and Holy Communion; a radio broadcast on Catholic Action over radio station WSOU; and the entrance of one of its outstanding members into the divinity school, Mr. Charles Titchenor.

N.F.C.C.S.

The National Federation of Catholic College Students, better known as the NFCCS was founded in 1937 when New York and New Jersey colleges met to establish an organ for intercollegiate activity. It now coordinates these activities on a national level as well, and represents the Catholic Students of America in Pax Romana, the international lay apostolic movement.

On a national level the federation endeavors to combat incipient provincialism and foster a realization of the student community by sponsoring European correspondence and travel programs, books, clothing, and fund raising drives for needy foreign students, and domestic scholarships for southern students.

On a regional level NFCCS works to coordinate co-curricular activities of the member schools by means of congresses, workshops, and commission publications.

This year Rev. Edwin V. Sullivan assumed the position of campus moderator. John McElroy was senior delegate, Donald James junior delegate, Richard Monago vice-junior delegate, and Philip Donnelly treasurer and student government commission chairman.

NATIONAL STUDENT'S ASSOCIATION

The National Student Association is an organization designed to solidify the ranks of the nation's college students. Prior to the N.S.A. there was no common ground on which students from all parts of the country, sometimes all parts of the world could gather and discuss problems which confront them. Students from one institution are often able to find solutions to their difficulties by determining how these obstacles are overcome at other colleges.

The N.S.A. also provides the students with an official mouthpiece through which they can let their thoughts be known. In this way the general opinions of the vast segment of American youth, which attends institutions of higher learning, may be expressed to the general public. Because of their unanimity these thoughts are treated more seriously than if a small group of students expressed them.

Students are given a greater power in the making of the nation's laws by the N.S.A. Legislators give a second thought before they vote in the negative on a bill which is backed by a virtual army of voters, both actual and potential. An instance of this is the student tax exemption bill which was passed with the aid of the National Students Association.

The Seton Hall chapter of the N.S.A. is currently engaged in revamping the Freshmen Initiation system now in use, helping to improve student government, and is always ready to help any organizations with problems. The members keep other schools constantly aware of Seton Hall's constant growth in both stature and size through their interchanges with other schools.

Delegates from Seton Hall attended congresses at New Jersey College for Women and at Rutgers University. In addition two delegates, Joe Gilchrist and Charles Schrak, attended the national congress at Iowa State College.

CENTURY CLUB

Contribution to the development of student campus life through group activities—that is the paramount purpose of the Century Club.

Not only does the club seek to accomplish this aim by attending the University basketball and baseball games as well as other social functions in groups composed of its members, but it also provides an incentive to every student on campus to become active in the other various organizations of the University.

This incentive is found in the form of a scholarship of one hundred dollars, which the club provides to be given to a deserving student selected by the unanimous vote of a committee composed of the president, vice-president, the moderator of the Century Club, the president of the Student Council, and the Director of Student Affairs. The student must, however, by the completion of his junior year have manifested a definite interest in the furthering of student participation in extracurricular activities in order to be eligible for this scholarship.

Mr. Harold Barletta, the club moderator, demonstrated his sincere interest in the club by aiding in the reorganization program, which was of prime concern to the Century Club this year. This program was initiated with election of officers. The Executive Committee, composed of Bernard Doneski, President; Robert Wussler, Vice-President; Eugene McBride, Secretary; Norman Hughes, Treasurer; and Joseph Donegan, Student Council Representative, concentrated its efforts this year on the reorganization program with the expectation of filling the gap left by the graduation of the founders of the young club, and thus pave the way for the Century Club's becoming one of the most active organizations on the campus next year.

PHI BETA SIGMA

To serve is man's most noble sentiment. To serve well is man's most honored achievement.

A service fraternity on the South Orange Campus is a relatively new idea but the calibre of the men in Phi Beta Sigma is nothing new to Seton Hall. It has been a matter of common knowledge that there rested on the shoulders of a few men the weight of the majority of student activities. But when these men banded together to serve the students more efficiently, this was news.

Led by President Lawrence G. Leyden and Moderator Clarence Lewis, the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity provides much of the vital know-how and elbow-grease to keep the extracurricular system at the peak of its operation. Selecting its members from the leaders and workers of the University was not a hard task. After serving a short pledge period during which time acquaintances blossom into friendships and then to lifelong brotherhood, Phi Beta men assume a new stature on the campus. Their abilities have been recognized and the will to serve their fellow men has been increased.

As long as Seton Hall has student activities, she will have Phi Beta Sigma and as long as Seton Hall has Phi Beta Sigma, she will hold her head high.

A.C.S.

The Academy of Science, Seton Hall University's undergraduate science club, has for its avowed aims the promotion and inspiration of its members toward a fuller understanding of the ideals of science, the affording of opportunities of developing their scientific knowledge to a beneficial and practical end, the fostering of professional pride in the sciences, and their acquisition of experience in the preparation and presentation of technical material.

During this past year these aims were implemented by a program of regular meetings at three-week intervals throughout the year; these meetings being held for the first time in the Amphitheater of the New Science Building. At these meetings distinguished speakers drawn from neighboring scientific, industrial, and medical institutions presented a varied series of topics.

On the evening of November 10, the Academy held its annual stag-social at the Club Navaho in Irvington, and on December 1, the Eighth Annual Banquet was held at the Robin Hood Inn in Clifton. Among the other accomplishments of the semester was the obtaining of a banner for the Academy; it has found a place of permanent display in the Amphitheater.

Not the least of the projects undertaken by the Academy was the appointment of a committee to direct the activities of the Ninth Annual Eastern Colleges Science Conference held at Seton Hall on April 14, 15, and 16. This indeed was an immense project and consumed much of the Academy's energies during the second semester. Seton Hall thus became the first Catholic institution to sponsor this annual gathering of science students dedicated to the fostering of undergraduate research. The Academy's affiliation with the American Chemical Society brought it into continual and fruitful contact with like-minded groups from neighboring institutions and into the widening circle of national affairs. It is hoped that the year's activities will prove beneficial in post-graduate and continuing undergraduate endeavors for all its members.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

Since its inception on the Seton Hall campus, the Psychology Club has attempted to provide a variety of functions to those individuals interested in psychology. As it is presently organized, provisions have been made to accommodate students who are planning careers in psychology as well as students having only a passive knowledge in this science. It holds its doors open to all who have a desire to make use of its fine facilities.

This year required a complete administrative change within the organization. Once having drafted and received recognition of its present constitution by the Student Council, plans and projects of a psychological nature were discussed and immediately set upon. These included a number of field trips to various local mental institutions and hospitals. In addition, with the Eastern College Science Conference held on campus this year, several research papers were presented by members of this group attending the conference.

A sad blow to the entire membership was the sudden departure of the psychology department head and the club's moderator, Dr. Francis M. Hammond. For beyond being an excellent scholastic instructor, Dr. Hammond served as a guide and inspiration to a number of his students. We shall always hold his advice and counsel in the highest esteem.

Presently, the programming calls for several field trips, a number of instructive psychological films, and a series of lectures by eminent speakers. With the overall interest thus far shown in the field, there is high hope of extending the scope and present limitations placed upon the group.

BROWNSON DEBATING SOCIETY

Named after one of the foremost Catholic laymen of the 19th century, the Brownson Debating Society has incorporated the principles of their namesake, Orestes Brownson, with the purpose of the Society. Just as Orestes was a lover of Truth and the possessor of a logical mind, so too, has the Brownson Debating Society as its purpose the enabling of its members to acquire a logical mind and a love of Truth. The secondary purpose of the Society is to enable the members to acquire a debating technique, so that they might better express themselves. This is obtained by practice in competitive debates with other Eastern colleges on a nation-wide topic. The topic which afforded many heated discussions this year is "Resolved: The United States should extend diplomatic recognition to Communist China."

This year, Seton Hall submitted its most active schedule in intercollegiate debating in the history of the University. Debate activity was inaugurated last November when twelve novice debators traveled 200 miles to attend a tournament in Clinton, New York. Successive tournaments at NYU, ST. JOHN'S, JOHNS HOPKINS, WILLIAM AND MARY, BROOKLYN COLLEGE, FORDHAM, ST. PETER'S, HOFSTRA, KINGS COLLEGE, AND AMHERST resulted in the scheduling of over 150 debates.

The Education of Seton Hall University is dedicated to the task of providing prospective teachers with a true Catholic philosophy of education. The club is organized for the purpose of supplying students in the School of Education, as well as any other interested students, with a medium through which they can better prepare for a career in the teaching profession. Most of the club's activities are centered around the role of the student teacher as he prepares for and enters into student teaching at the end of his senior year.

The Education Club was guided through the 1954-55 school year under the leadership of its president, Joseph Gilchrist. Under Joe's guidance field trips to both public and parochial schools for the purpose of observing actual teacher-pupil relationships in learning situations were an important phase of the Education Club's activities. Members were permitted to request a visitation to any school of their choice, and the officers and moderators made the necessary arrangements.

Discussion periods, under the guidance of Mr. Turner and Mr. White—moderators of the Education Club, plus student teaching forums, under the direction of Dr. DeBros—Director of the Student Teaching Department, provided valuable information to meet the needs of prospective Seton Hall graduates into the field of education.

REV. EDWARD FLEMING
Dean. University College

An integral factor in university life is the cooperation and exchange of ideas among students and faculty. Since the purpose of Seton Hall University College is the same as that of any other university, it is necessary to maintain a popular and energetic student governing body to act as liason between student body and Administration.

In November, 1954, the Setonia Party, under the leadership of Louis Giacona, was elected to the Student Council. The Setonia platform is designed to satisfy the needs of the University College—to foster interest in our school and to provide activities to maintain that interest at a high peak. The prime objectives are to gain representation in the Galleon, foster a closer relationship between campus and University College, and to obtain our own Chapel. Concrete results are evident in the University College Tonight, activity bulletin of the Newark school, cooperation with the campus on the March of Dimes Drive, plans for an Oratory, as well as the Student Council sponsored retreat, Communion Breakfast and Senior Dinner Dance.

The field of activity for a University College Student Council is vast—capable leaders will find a challenge in developing the traditions of the University College.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE SORORITY

During the past four years University College students have witnessed the establishment and growth of the University College Sorority, among the first and strongest social supports of the school. The formation of the Sorority was based on the need to unite the women of Seton Hall University College, to promote and support student activities, and to enrich the spiritual, social and cultural lives of its members.

Under the moderation of Miss Virginia Voight, the leadership of Miss Johanna Allmansburger, President, and her capable officers, the Sorority has given a Pledge Tea, Christmas Party, Retreat, Theatre Parties and an Orphan Party. In addition the Sorority has assisted at several social affairs planned by Mrs. Ruth Dugan, Dean of Women.

Despite its youth as an organization, the Sorority has achieved the recognition of both the Administration and the Student Council as a social asset of great value to the whole school.

The Sorority wishes to take this opportunity to extend an invitation to all women students of the University College since thirty scholastic credits are the only requirement. With increased membership will come greater strength and many more social activities for all members.

RETREAT

Benediction.

Lift up your heart!

FATHER
JAMES FENTON
FINLEY

Realizing the need to pause and consider man's true status as a creature of God working out his salvation amidst the stress, temptations, and cynicism of today's materialistic civilization, the administration sets aside one week each year for a retreat for all Catholic students and those non-Catholics who wish to attend.

This year the retreat was preached by Father James Finley, C.S.P., from October 20 to 22. Father's conferences were of an outspoken man to man nature, well designed to cause each student to stop and reflect on his own life, to appraise it in the light of Catholic moral and social teaching, and to correct any deviations from the Christian norm.

The retreat was concluded by a community mass Friday morning at which all those making the retreat received Holy Communion and were given the Papal Blessing.

FRESHMAN INITIATION

One of the biggest and most hilarious occasions of college life at Seton Hall University is the "Freshmen Initiation Period." Starting with the week prior to the opening of the academic school year, when the Frosh have orientation, until October 15, when the "Beanie Rush" takes place, the freshmen are introduced to the ways of college life.

The Sophomore Class, with Joseph Pecora, president, supervises the initiation and a group of sophs are organized into a Vigilance Committee. This committee, under direction of Gary Nardino and Fred Duffy, sets up the rules which the Freshment must abide by. To mention just a few, all freshmen must wear Beanies and name cards from the first day of initiation to the final day of the "Beanie Rush." Beanies must be worn within a radius of three blocks of the campus; resident freshman students must wear their Beanies after school hours. All Frosh must know "The Alma Mater" and "March Setonia" and the school cheers. Upon request, the Frosh must identify, by proper names, all of the buildings on campus, and their locations. Frosh must address all upper classmen as "Sir."

To assist the freshmen as much as possible during this period, a list of the rules and a Student Handbook is made available to them. In the event that the freshmen fail to follow the rules, the Vigilance Committee moves into action. Its members carry identification cards and issue summonses to the violators. The summonses are answerable at the Vigilance Court, presided over by Dick Kernan, president of the Student Council. Any violator appearing before the court may be defended by an approved lawyer. A dance is held following each court session.

Pep Rally . . .

To inaugurate the 1954-55 Seton Hall basketball season, a pep rally and dance was held in the Auditorium-Gymnasium on November 29, 1954. Under the chairmanship of Joseph Gilchrist, familiar to all as the cheerleading captain, the program included the introduction of the 1954-55 basketball team amidst an atmosphere of school songs and cheers. Arnie Ring and Ronnie Nathanic, captains of the squad, introduced each member of the varsity team to over 700 students and friends of Seton Hall.

The freshman basketball team made their debut and the assembled throng got a look at the men upon which Seton Hall's future basketball hopes lie. The program was concluded with a dance and refreshments for the students and invited guests from Seton Hall and from over fifteen girls' colleges. With the assistance of the Men's Glee Club and the Phi Beta Sigma Service Fraternity, the event was declared an overwhelming success and fitting send off to our 1954-55 basketball team.

SENIOR DANCE

On the night of October 30, the Senior Class opened the social calendar at Seton Hall with "The Harvest Moon Ball." Don Sterling and his Orchestra were featured along with Dick Meyers and his quintet; the two provided continuous dance music with the latter offering the very popular Dixie Land music.

Joe Brennan, president of the class of '55, appointed Tom Hunt and Joe McNany as dance co-chairmen, and together they worked diligently to open the way for the social functions to follow.

A great deal of preparation was necessary to "put over" an affair of this type, and a great many fail to realize this fact. As far back as early September, the co-chairmen were carefully making plans. The dance was a big event and logically couldn't be handled by a few. As a result, various committees were organized and Jack O'Rourke was named Ticket Chairman. His job was to order the proper number of tickets, set up a floor plan, and open up the ticket sales. Kevin McCormack, as Booklet Chairman, secured advertisements to defray expenses. To make certain that the Seton Hall Gymnasium-Auditorium was fitted for the occasion, Ed Hopper, with previous dance committee experience was Decorations Chairman. The ordering of tables, candles, chairs, decorations, and the like, was his job. Publicity was handled by Jack Janowski.

With the wheels in motion, the climax came the night of "The Harvest Moon Ball." At that time the seniors, with their best dates, tripped the light fantastic.

On the night of May 21, 1955, the Sophomore Class played host to Seton Hall University by presenting its annual dance, "MUSIC IN SILHOUETTE." A new spectacular orchestral setting, together with a splendor of fine music, was but a part of the ineffable evening.

The spring, having been in full blossom, coincided with the evenings decorations and added to its atmosphere. The night, its silence broken by the happy hearts, was glowing in the joy around the campus.

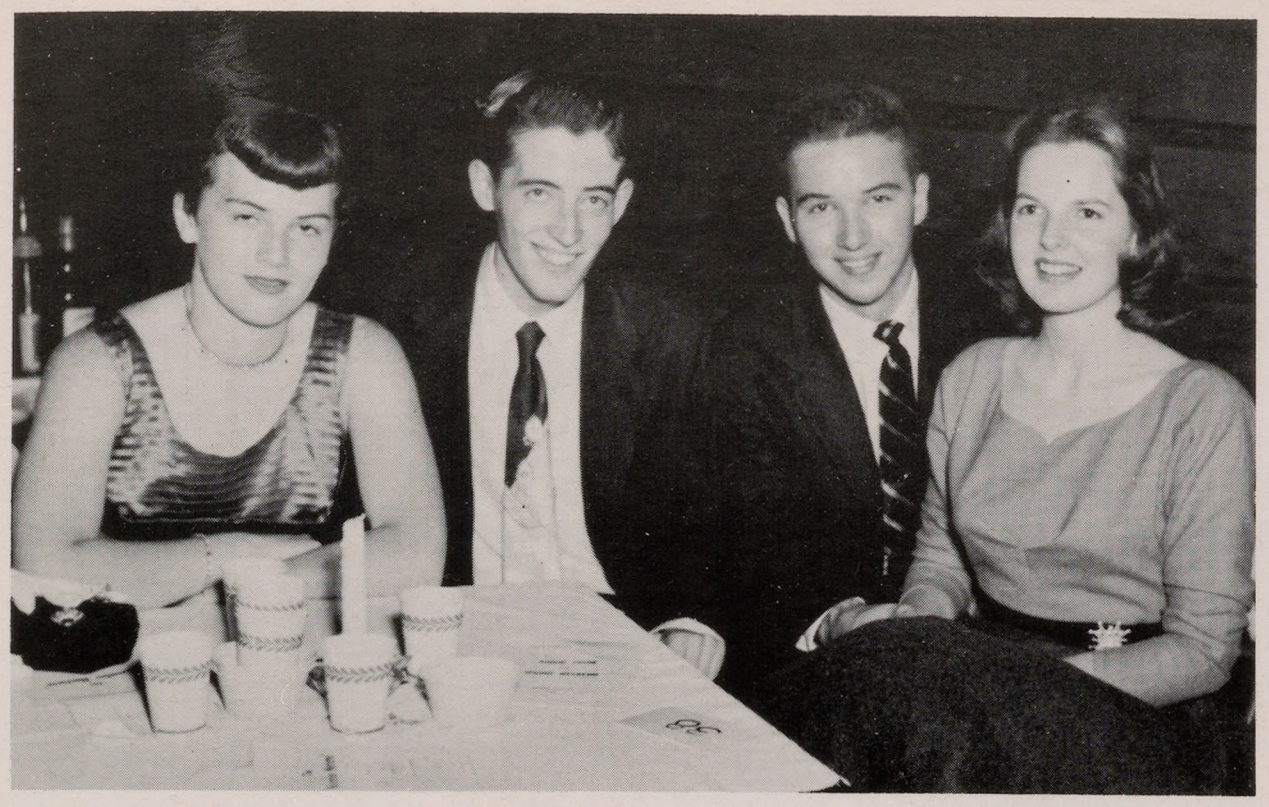

Having been the final social event of the semester, the students and their dates took full advantage of the festivities at hand, making it the most successful activity this year on campus.

Danced on and on . . .

On Saturday evening, November 20, 1954, under a canopy of silver and black streamers, the Junior Class presented one of the best informal dances held at Seton Hall University in many a year.

Johnny Czar and his Orchestra provided the soft slow refrains while Buddy Dee and His Dixielanders made every effort to "raise the Roof" of the auditorium-gymnasium. The crowd of over eight hundred, became so enthused with the melodies of both these groups, that by the end of the evening everyone was singing or leading lines of dancers wherever a person could fit.

Tom Foley, Chairman of the dance, deserves a great deal of credit for this most unusual affair, as do all the men who worked with him. Other Chairmen included: Ned Crowell, Drew DeCoursey, James Giuliano, George Meciak, Vito Papa, and Jerry Vogel.

Queen of the Campus Dance

Mayor Leo P. Carlin of Newark, Carl Reiner, Jerry Nusbaum, and Bob Wilson pose with the Queen.

Camera Shy!

"The Setonian," the official undergraduate newspaper of Seton Hall, sponsors the Queen of the Campus Dance, and a great deal of preparation is put into the affair by the editors and staff members. Starting last September, the newspaper opened a contest in which students entered their best gals' pictures for weekly queen honors. Those chosen by the editors as weekly winners became eligible for the semi-finals, which were held January 2. At that time seven girls were selected out of a field of 25 to appear at the dance as finalists.

The selection of a queen is the highlight of the night and several celebrities were on hand to judge the lovely young ladies. The judges were Mayor Leo P. Carlin of Newark; Jerry Nusbaum, columnist for the Newark Star Ledger; Bob Wilson, NBC staff commentator; and Carl Reiner, comedian on the "Sid Caesar Show."

The contest started with the familiar, "A Pretty Girl Is Like a Melody," and the red carpet was rolled out. The girls, who were judged on the basis of poise, personality, and appearance, were escorted by the students who submitted their pictures. As the girls nervously paraded before the judges the MC added color to the ceremony by relating some facts about the prospective queen to be.

Continuous music was provided by Johnny Hensler and his Orchestra, with vocalist Doris Kay. As an added attraction "Buddy" Dee and his Dixielanders rendered jazz selections, New Orleans style.

The new queen, Debbie Lu Carlin, reigned over the Setonia Campus throughout the year, attended all social functions, and received many gifts from local merchants.

MARIAN STATUE DEDICATION

To demonstrate their fervent, unswerving devotion to Mary, the students erected a white marble statue of the Blessed Virgin which was dedicated by Msgr. McNulty, December 7, with the assistance of the ROTC honor guard, the schola cantorum, and the student body.

The statue is so situated in the quadrangle as to render it visible from major campus buildings so that Setonians would always be reminded to look to Mary for help and guidance. It stands on a pedestal inscribed "To Our Lady in her Marian year with the love and gratitude of the administration, faculty, and students of Seton Hall."

FRESHMAN DANCE

The Class of '58 climaxed their first year of college life with "Spring Swing," a social held on the evening of May 13. From the very beginning when the freshmen had their orientation, up until the dance itself, their days were filled with memories which they will never forget.

John N. Clare, General Chairman, had at his disposal many freshmen who were ready and willing to help their class get off on to a good start as far as financial matters were concerned. Jasper Poppa and Don Knofp were the co-chairmen of the Ticket Committee, the laborous task of decorating the auditorium-gymnasium went to Chairman John Green, and publicity was handled by Burt Burke and Frank Gilligan.

Johnny Hensler, long established as one of the better bands to add enjoyment to any Seton Hall affair, provided the musical refrains.

GALLEON BALL

February 15, 1955 — a Friday! What Seton Hall Senior will forget that night? The wind howled, the hail fell, the roads were icy sheets, and the temperature's rapid decline indicated the return of the Ice Age.

However, like the postman, neither rain, nor snow, nor sleet can keep "Joe Seton" from making his annual visit to the Astor Roof. He showers, shaves, combs, brushes, dones a tux, struggles with a bow tie, and hops into the car. He arrives at his girl's home slightly frozen, corsage in hand, and after admiring the new gown for the required length of time, slips her wrap over her shoulders. Then out they go — into the night and toward the "Big Town."

Arriving at the Astor Roof, "Joe Seton" and his date hear the music of LeRoy Holmes and his Orchestra inviting them to dance. They were welcomed by Charles Gibbs and Joe Flood, Co-Chairmen of the prom, who are gifting the young ladies with mementos to add to the evening's charm.

The evening is a memorable one, thanks to the efforts of Frank Cannata, Tony Brown, Vince Leonard and Bob Whirty. The singing of Eileen Barton started the night off, with dancing and friendly conversation carrying off the rest of the hours. All too soon the Galleon Ball is over!

The Seton Hall Alumni Association under its new moderator, the Rev. Albert B. Hakim, enjoyed its most successful year during the past twelve months. That period saw the introduction of the "Seton Hall Reporter," a monthly newsletter distributed to all graduates, a most rewarding social season and the election of a new slate of officers.

The open house held in May of last year started the ball rolling and the organization continued to gain momentum through the summer months to be highlighted by the greatest turnout in history for the Annual Banquet, held in November at the Meadowbrook. Over 750 grads held a gala reunion at this function and stories and experiences were related far into the night.

In December, Peter F. X. Finnerty, Class of 1940 was elected president of the Association. Under his leadership the alumni are already making plans to take an active interest in Setonia's celebration of Her Centennial Year in 1956.

JUNIOR PROM

In prominence, the "Starlight Serenade," as it was the Junior Prom was the social of the year. It was an engaging night built upon the idea of a sophisticated evening with both setting and guests suitable to this concept. The Starlight Roof of the Waldorf-Astoria on the evening of April 22, was duly invaded by the masses of Setonians who drove into the city for the prom. As its featured musical attraction it offered the "Commanders, a nationally known band whose music is designed specifically for the collegiate taste.

Among the guests present was Phyllis Kirk, the well known TV star, acting as hostess. Having such a fine background the affair was a sparkling success and another link in the chain of successes forged by the Juniors.

R.O.T.C. BALL

The Fifth Annual Military Ball, sponsored by the Reserve Officers Training Corps of Seton Hall University, is the social function of the corps that climaxes the scholastic year. Under the Chairmanship of Cadet Lt. John K. Halpin the affair was held May 7, in the Auditorium-Gymnasium with music by "Duke" Stabile and his orchestra.

Those selected by Cadet Lt. Halpin to assist in making arrangements for the affair were: Cadet Lt. Joseph Flood, publicity, and editor of the booklet; Cadet Lt. Thomas Licciardi, and Cadet Lt. Louis J. Deck were co-chairmen of the invitation and ticket committees; Cadet Lt. Thomas W. Bender acted as the chairman of decorations; refreshments were distributed under the direction of Cadet Lt. Louis D. Tichenor.

Like the dances held in the courts of emperors of another era, the Ball is a continuous dance festival from evening 'til morn. It is attended, not only by the cadets, but by ROTC notables from other schools as well.

The highlight of the affair was the choosing of the Queen of the Ball. Cadet Lt. John J. Kennelly served as Chairman of the committee which selected the "Queen of the Military Ball."

Through the concentrated efforts of Cadet Lt. Halpin, Major Alfred F. Daubenfeld, coordinator for the ROTC Department, and the Department of Military Science and Tactics, the 1955 Ball was successful and will be long remembered by the cadets.

CONVOCATIONS

The theme of the Convocations — "What Makes America Great?" Is it the massive industry that can produce more of anything quicker than any other nation on the earth? Or is it the corner grocery store that satisfies the needs of a small community? Is it a million man Army that can strike with instant retaliation, or is it the child that finds solace in his mother's arms after skinning his knee?

To convene the Student Body for the purposes of mass education is no light statement, but through the efforts of permanent Chairman Leonard Dreyfuss, Seton Hall has heard the leaders of industry and government try and answer this question. The President of New Jersey's largest business concerns thought that the answer was in free enterprise. Government leaders who had the ear of the President of the United States thought that the answer was in the opportunity that all Americans had to set whatever goal without fear. State leaders found the answer in the basic freedoms of every citizen as guaranteed by the Constitution.

The Galleon will not attempt to give its answer to the question of "What Makes America Great" but it is sure that as long as continuous reappraisals of this sort are taking place on the campus we can all sleep a little easier at night.

BASKETBALL

Just wait a minute!

It's anybody's ball.

The 1954-55 basketball team began the season with the loss of only three graduating players from last year's team, and the addition of four excellent sophomores. Seniors Arnie Ring and Ron Nathanic, both four year varsity members, were named co-captains.

Using the two platoon system, the Pirates opened the season December 1, with a 93-62 win over Roanoke. From there they went on to beat Albright, Western Kentucky, Wheaton, Providence, Scranton, and William and Mary. It took a highly regarded West Coast foe, Stanford, to hand the hoopsters their first defeat, a close 65-63 score. Back to their winning ways again, Gonzaga, Colby and Loyola were beaten in that order.

The short trip to Madison Square Garden resulted in a defeat on January 11, to a Wake Forest five spearheaded by All-American Dick Hemric. Four days later it took two overtime periods to overcome traditional foe St. Peter's, 80-77.

A string of three defeats followed at the hands of three of the countries better teams, namely, Villanova, Fordham, and Cincinnati. The Blue and White found the winning path again and knocked off John Carroll, Muhlenberg and Boston College in that order. A surprising Georgetown quintet outplayed the Pirates to the tune of a 76-73 win.

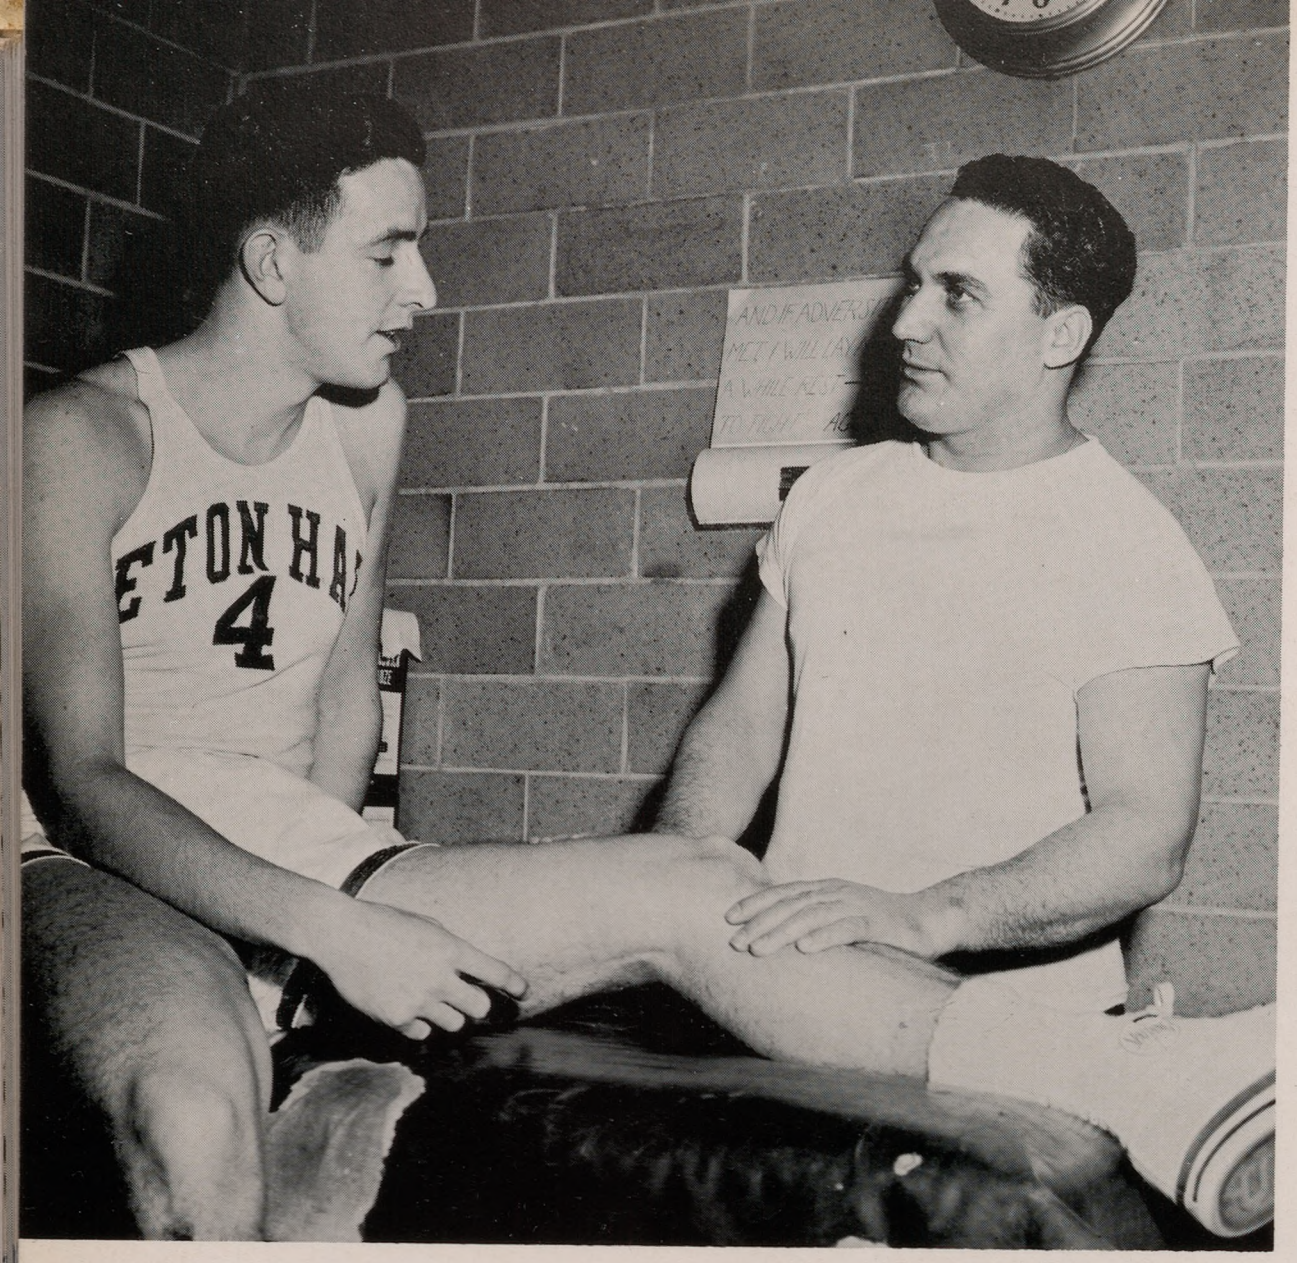

Mine, all mine.

St. Francis of Brooklyn lost their hope of a National Invitation Tourney bid by losing their game to Seton Hall, 88-76. Iona was beaten on our home court on February 26, and two nights later the Pirates avenged an early season setback to the N.C.A.A. bound Villanova Wildcats, 83-79. The regular season ended with a disastrous road trip resulting in losses to John Carroll and Dayton.

Accepting an N.I.T. bid the Pirates drew a very strong St. Francis of Loretto team in the first round play. Playing without the use of high scorer "Chink" Gaines, the Setonian lost to the Pennsylvania quintet, spear-headed by the eventual tournament's "Most Valuable Award" winner, Maurice Stokes. The score was 89-78.

Chances of the 1955-56 club improving on the 17-9 record of this year look very good. The top five scorers, Gaines, Petrie, Farrell, Long, and Lorenzo are all returning, although the loss of seniors Ring, Nathanic, and Travers will be felt.

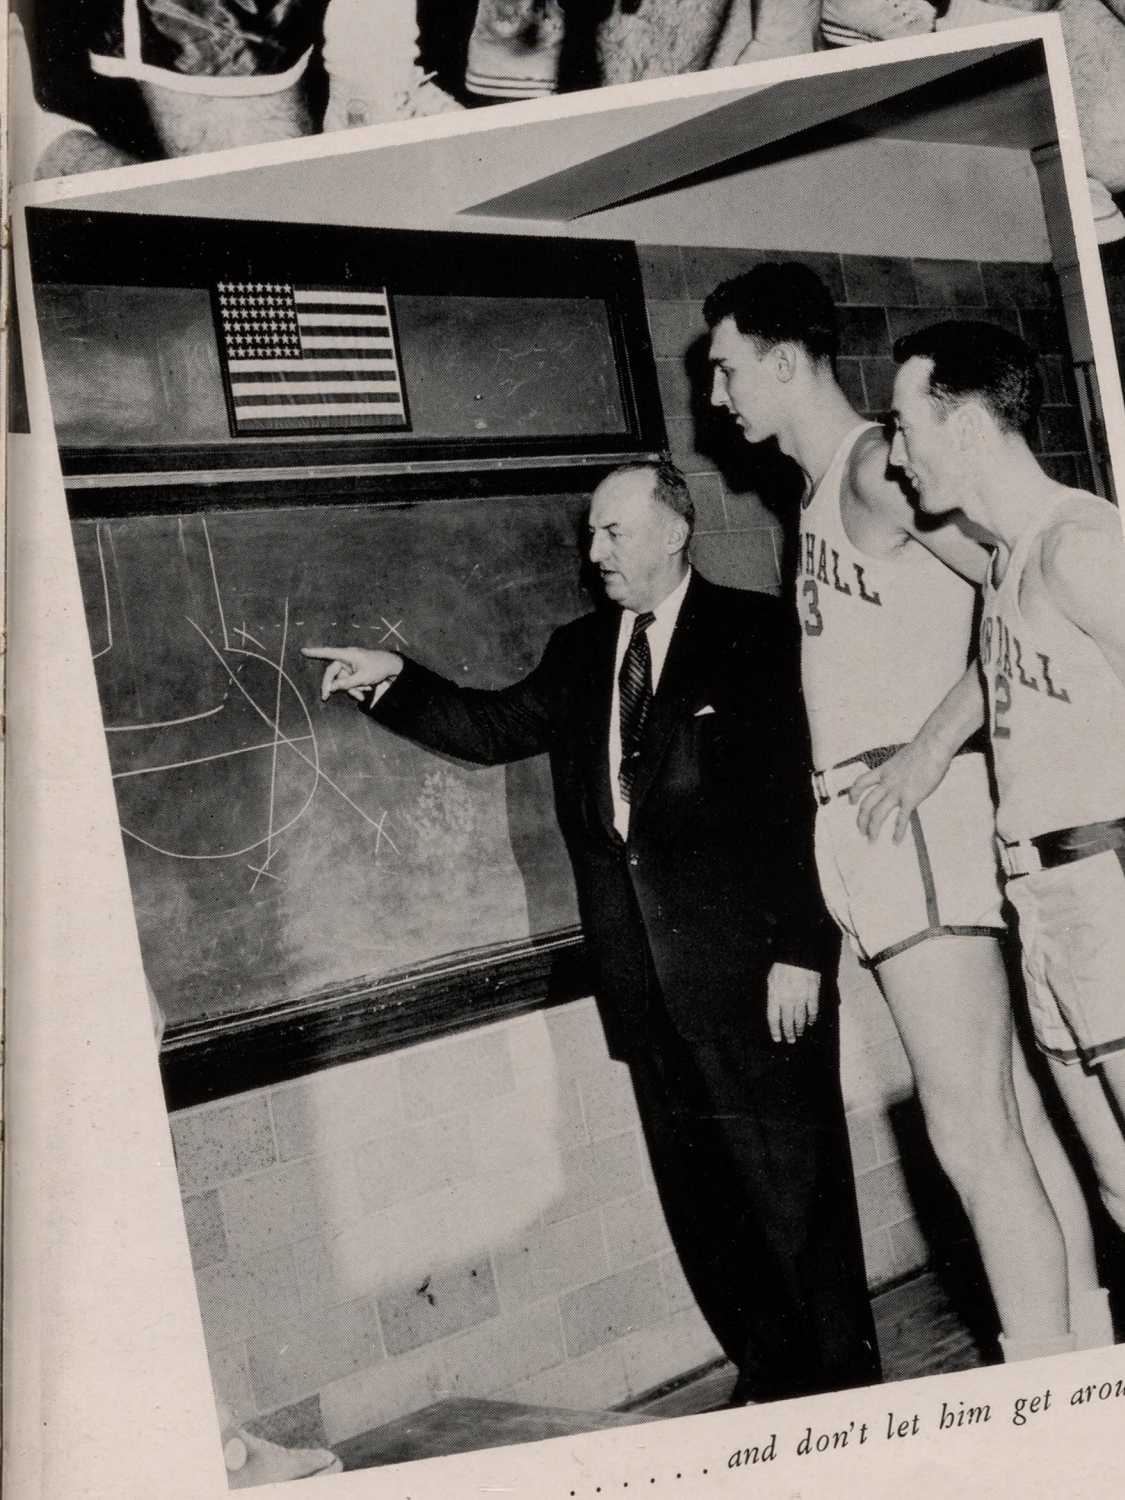

Once over lightly. Hugh Gallagher and Trainer Eddie Coppola.

TIME OUT

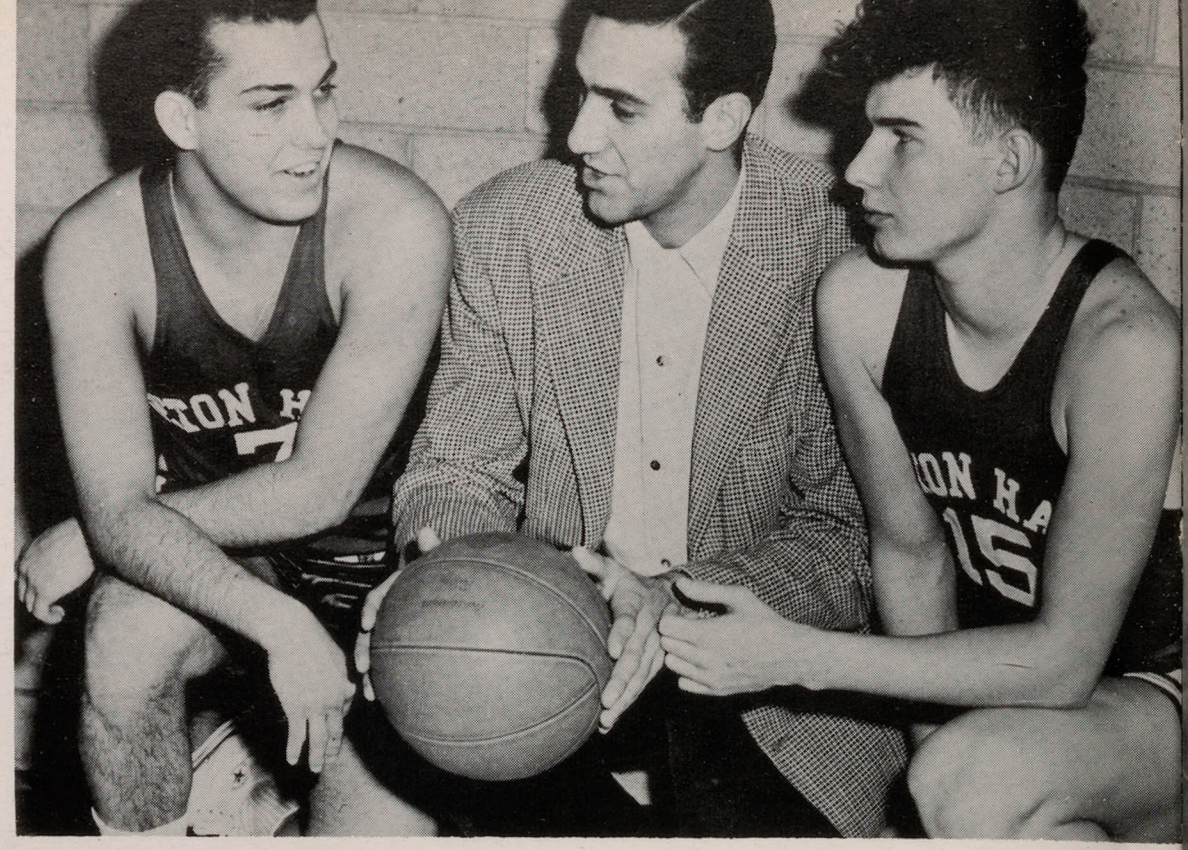

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

The yearlings started rather slowly, but as the season progressed they began to hit their stride and finished with a 14-6 record. The steadiest performer was Paul Szczech All-Stater from Garfield. Szczech hit for 382 points, and boasted an amazing 49% floor mark. Paul is a great driver and is extremely dangerous from the outside.

The "big man" of the squad was six foot, eight and one half inch, Tom Cross. Tom improved tremendously as the season moved along, and brought back memories of the great Walter Dukes. He posted an 11.8 points per game average, and took 264 rebounds, for an even 12 per game. Big Tom hit for a spectacular 61% of his shoots.

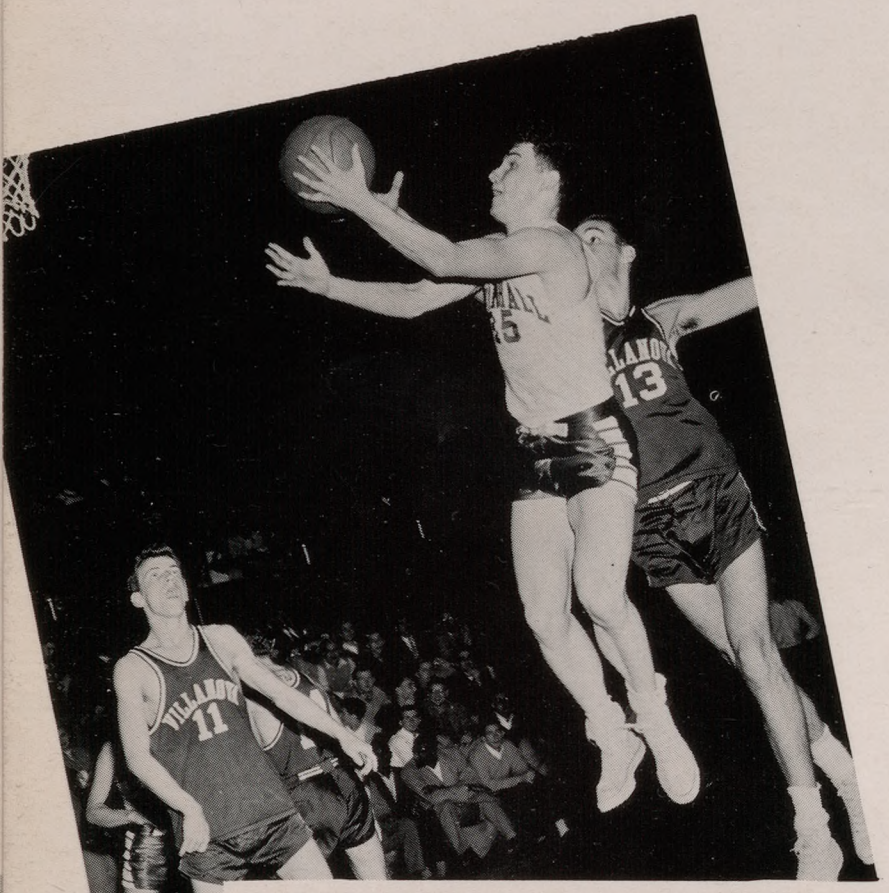

Vinnie Ryan, hampered by a hand injury early in the campaign, eventually regained the form which won for him All-State honors. In the last seven games Vinnie averaged close to twenty points per tilt, ending the season with 236 points, third highest on the team.

Tony Comello, Coach Frank Peloso, and Paul Szczech.

Lionel Holder, who never played high school ball, and Don Roberts rounded out the starting five. Holder had 211 points, and grabbed 176 rebounds. Roberts, who possesses a deadly set shot, ended with 203 points.

Others who played very well were George Saxenmeyer, and Julius Nicolai, Ron Berthasavage, a small ball handler ended with only 105 points, but was well liked by Honey Russell. Tom Walsh, and Briant Kelly rounded out the squad.

High scorer Paul Szczech goes up for two against Villanova. Game ended in a tie.

TRACK

TRACK—1955

The 1955 edition of the Pirate track team met with considerable success despite the lack of complete training facilities.

Ray Trouve was named captain and followed his appointment with a first place in the Jersey A.A.U. Cross-Country Championships.

A mile relay chosen from among Chick Maute, Frank Bailey, Tom Cahill, George Hesnan and Trouve, took fourth in the Boston K. of C. Games; and third places in the Washington Star Meet, Millrose Games and the Boston A.A. Meet. A second place was taken in the Philadelphia Inquirer Games and victory was won in the N.Y.A.C. Games.

The two mile relay, running with Vic Gironda, Matt Hennessey, Sid McCready and Trouve were fourth in the Boston A.A. Meet and first in the Philadelphia Meet.

The Pirates had their first chance at individual events February 18 at Baltimore and came home with honors. Trouve ran an excellent race and captured the 880 with Gironda taking third. McCready took third in the 660, Hennessey was fifth in the mile while a mile relay team captured second.

On February 26th, Seton Hall easily defended its Jersey A.A.U. track title as Bruce Goodwin flashed to a big upset win in the 60 yard dash. The Blue and White dominated the 600 final as Cahill, Hesnan, Cal Grupe and Maute finished on top in that order. Gironda was just nipped at the tape in the 1000 with Ed Cryer taking fourth. Hennessey, running the mile, also had to be content with a second place.

The graduation of Trouve, Bailey, McCready, Jack Janowski, Sam Purpuri and Larry Galardi, currently inactive beacause of an injury, will hurt the team but several underclassmen have shown promise for the future.

GOLF

The 1955 season contained stiff competition for the Seton Hall Golf Team. Among some of the schools which will give Seton Hall keen competition are Villanova, Bridgeport, St. John's and Montclair State Teachers. The team was also entered in the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Championships held in Westchester County.

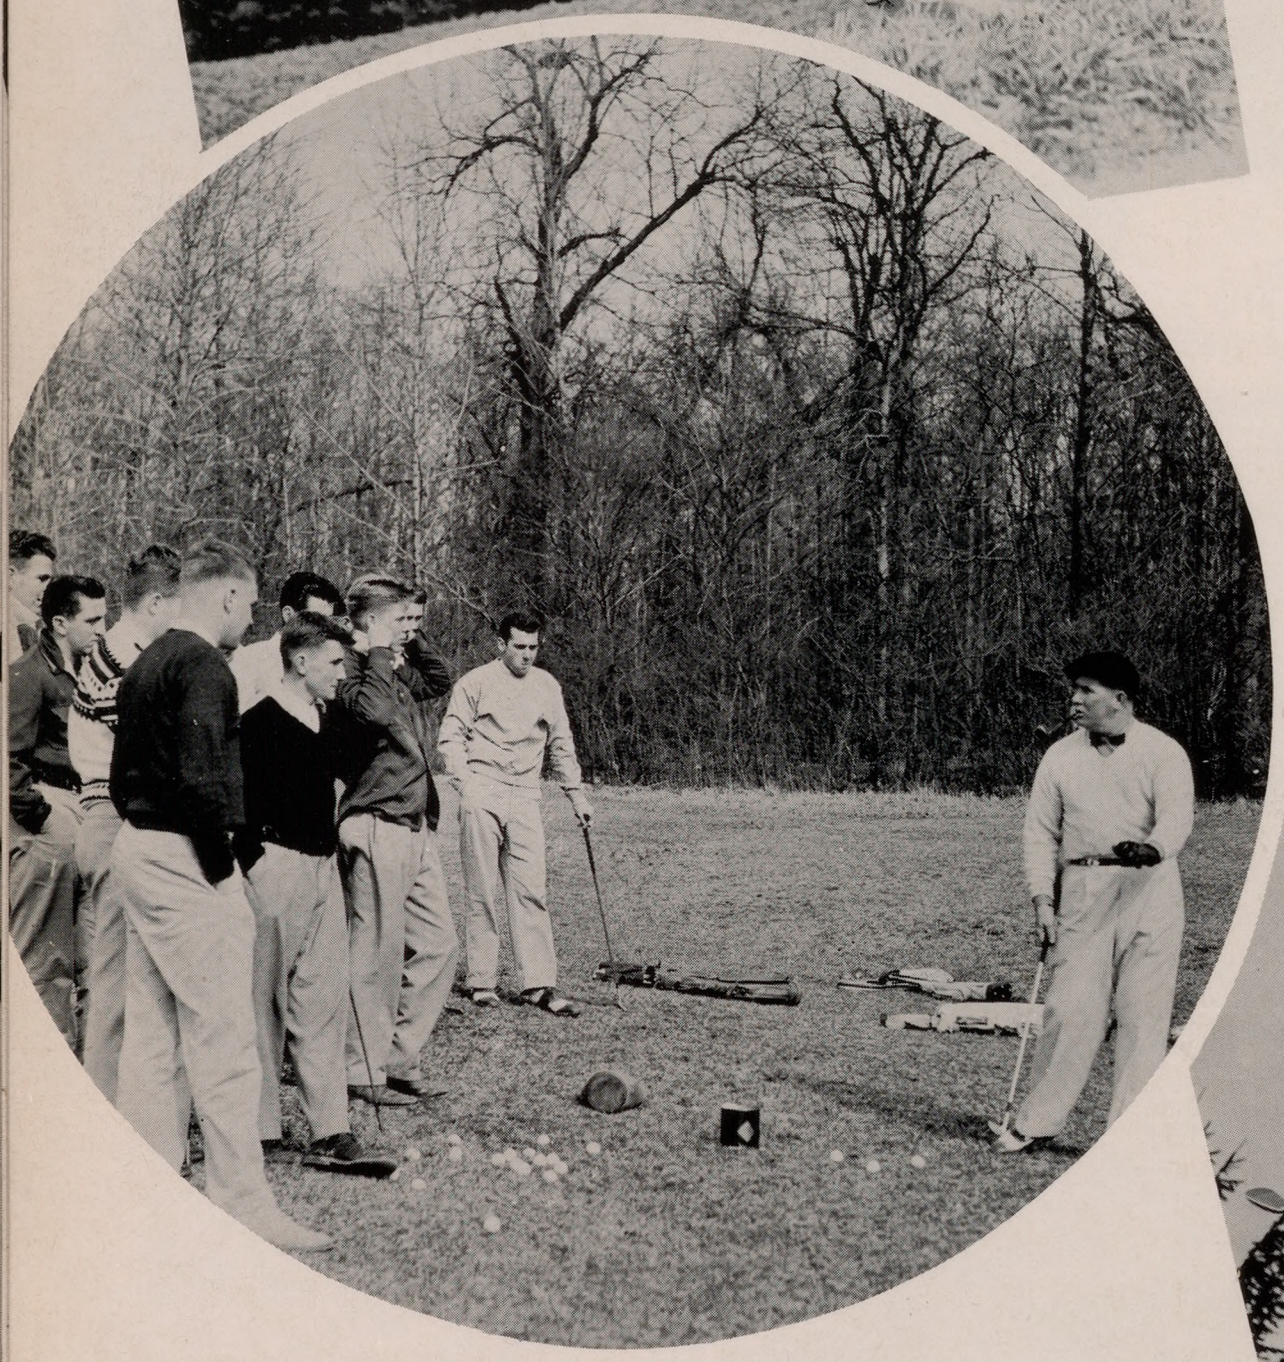

Bud Geoghegan, coach of Seton Hall had most of his mainstays of last season returning. Heading this group was Captain Nick Blasi along with Ed Walters, John Brady, Corky Conte, Ronnie Marra and Lou Petroziello. All the boys are juniors with the exception of Walters and Marra who graduate this year.

The boys are aiming to better their last season's record of 8 wins and 4 losses. One of the main faults of last year's club which is expected to be overcome this year was a lack of experience. The boys all hit the ball a long distance as compared to the average college player and are fairly accurate with their irons but, occasional loss of the "putting touch" and inaccuracy around the greens caused the team to falter.

The team should do well in the Metropolitan tournament. Last year they placed third in a ten team field. Blasi may have a chance of taking individual honors in the affair. Last year as a sophomore, Nick placed tenth in a field of one hundred and ten entries.

The 1955 edition of Seton Hall's varsity baseball team upheld the fine tradition of sportsmanship and all around playing ability that has become the trademark of a Seton Hall team. Early this spring Coach Ownie Carroll had a serious problem in that he had to develop a pitching staff that would take up the slack left by last year's mainstays Kunert and Walker. He was hampered by bad weather, but as the season progressed the pitching rounded into shape with the rest of the ball club. Lou Tichenor lived up to the promise he has been showing for three years and became the team's stopper. He had lots of help from Frank Servas and a transfer student, Jim Fesky.

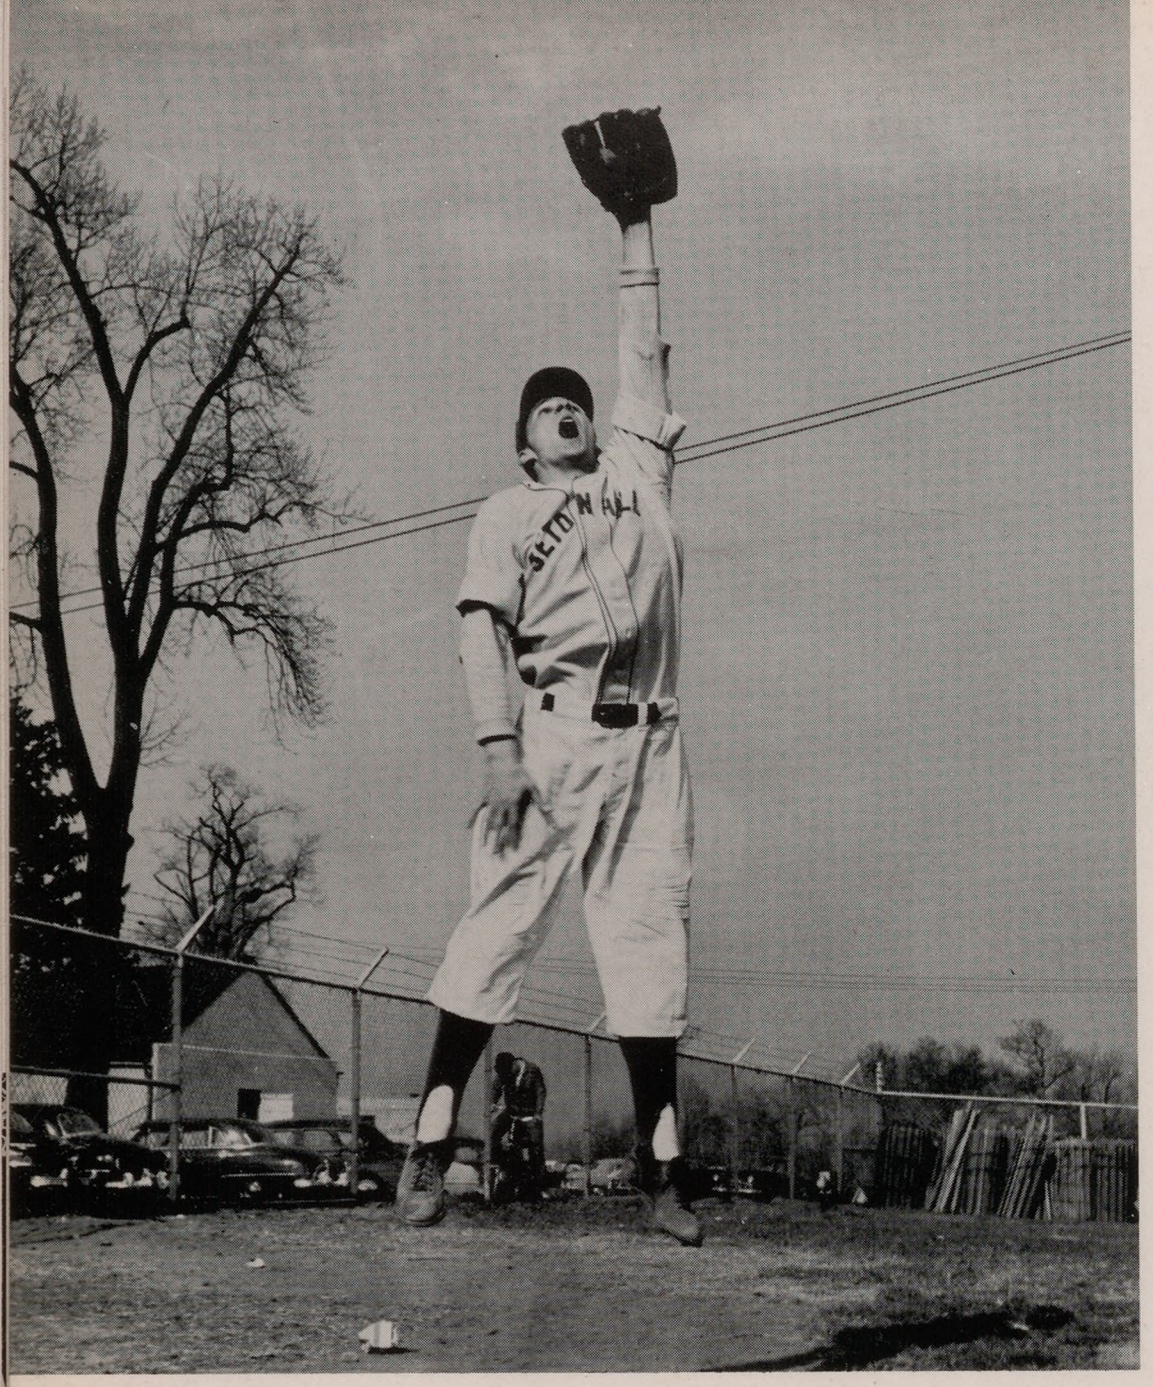

The infield on this team had to plug the hole left by All-American Billy Nolan, and under the able coaching of Carroll they developed an infield that was second to none. At first base, Co-Captain Jack (Rils) Riley fielded flawlessly, and came through with the long ball hitting when the team needed it. The keystone combination of senior Eddie Walters and sophomore Lou Puma, was one of the best in the state. Walters, playing a strange position for him, second base, became especially adept at making the pivot on the double play. Lou Puma, playing his first year of varsity ball, was an exceptional shortstop. Playing the hot corner, third base, for the second consecutive year was Joe Lucciola. Joe, one of the better hitters on the team, seemed to gain confidence and became a strong fielder. The catching was ably handled by Co-Captain Jimmie Reardon, playing his fourth year of varsity baseball. Reardon was spelled at this arduous position by hard hitting Paul Jamison. Jamison also played in the outfield.

The outfield was manned by three fine fielders, Jimmy Dimino, Jim Maguire, and Mike Mazzei. Dimino, a fleet footed fly chaser, was stationed in center field where he turned many potential base hits into outs.

The team began its season in early April and after a slow start it became a formidable aggregation which didn't have to take a back seat to any team in the state.

FRESHMAN BASEBALL

Seton Hall's baseball future looks extremely bright with a fine crop of freshman ballplayers coming up. Bob Kinard, who coached all three major sports at Iona Prep last year, has the finest crop of athletes to come along in quite some time.

With some ten All-State and All-County ballplayers, Kinard's job may turn into a very easy one. In the infield he has, Harry Payton, All-Stater from St. Benedict's Prep at first base. At second Bernie Suttake, and at third Mike Sheppard, both are Seton Hall Prep graduates, and both attained All-State honors. Rounding out the infield at short-stop is Joe Bonz, of Sayreville. The outfield consists of three All-Staters. Jack Jeffrey, John Allen, from St. Benedict's who will also do some pitching, and Paul Szczech, of Garfield. Behind the plate will be Sam Colello, All-Stater from Newark East Side. Realizing that pitching is 75% of the game, Kinard has an excellent pitching staff. The most promising of the chuckers are Bob Mallack, and John Greene. Others who show great promise are, Bert Burke, Julius Nicolai, Joe Landolfi, and Ron Berthasavage.

With this fine crop of youngsters, plus an excellent reserve staff Seton Hall can look ahead to a bright future in intercollegiate baseball.

Mid-field scuffle.

JOSEPH MONTELEONE

Seton Hall's lone entrant in the Autumnal sports parade, the Soccer Squad, compiled a record of 5 wins and 2 losses. Coach Bill Garry welded a fine team out of a combination of returning veterans Stan Cier, Joe Monteleone (Co-Captains), Bob Newkirchen, and Herm Kassel together with newcomers Ed Garripoli, Aurel Schmidt, and Barry Fuss.

The Pirates opened on their home field against a newly-formed Fairleigh-Dickinson eleven. The Pirates displayed a fine offense backed by a superlative defense to roll to a 4 to 1 victory.

Next on the slate was Panzer College. Panzer did not greet the Pirates very cordially as they put up a bitter battle before succumbing 2 to 1.

The Seton Hall booters ventured to the Bronx where they met the Ram of Fordham. A combination of poor play, plus being on the wrong end of all the breaks, resulted in the first defeat for the Pirates by a score of 3 to 2.

Back on their home field the team repeated their opening game performance against Fairleigh-Dickinson. This time the score was 5 to 1 in favor of the Pirates as Stan Cier turned in the hat trick.

The Lions of Trenton State Teachers College played host to the men of Setonia. Playing on a muddy field the Pirates won 2 to 0 as Barry Fuss turned in a shutout in the nets.

The Blue and White returned to the campus to engage Panzer. The contest proved to be one of the roughest of the season as the Pirates won on a free kick by Stan Cier 1 to 0.

The finest contest of the year was against West Chester College, one of the nation's top teams. The Pennsylvanians displayed a fine fast-breaking attack as they smothered the Pirates 4 to 1.

WEIGHT LIFTING CLUB

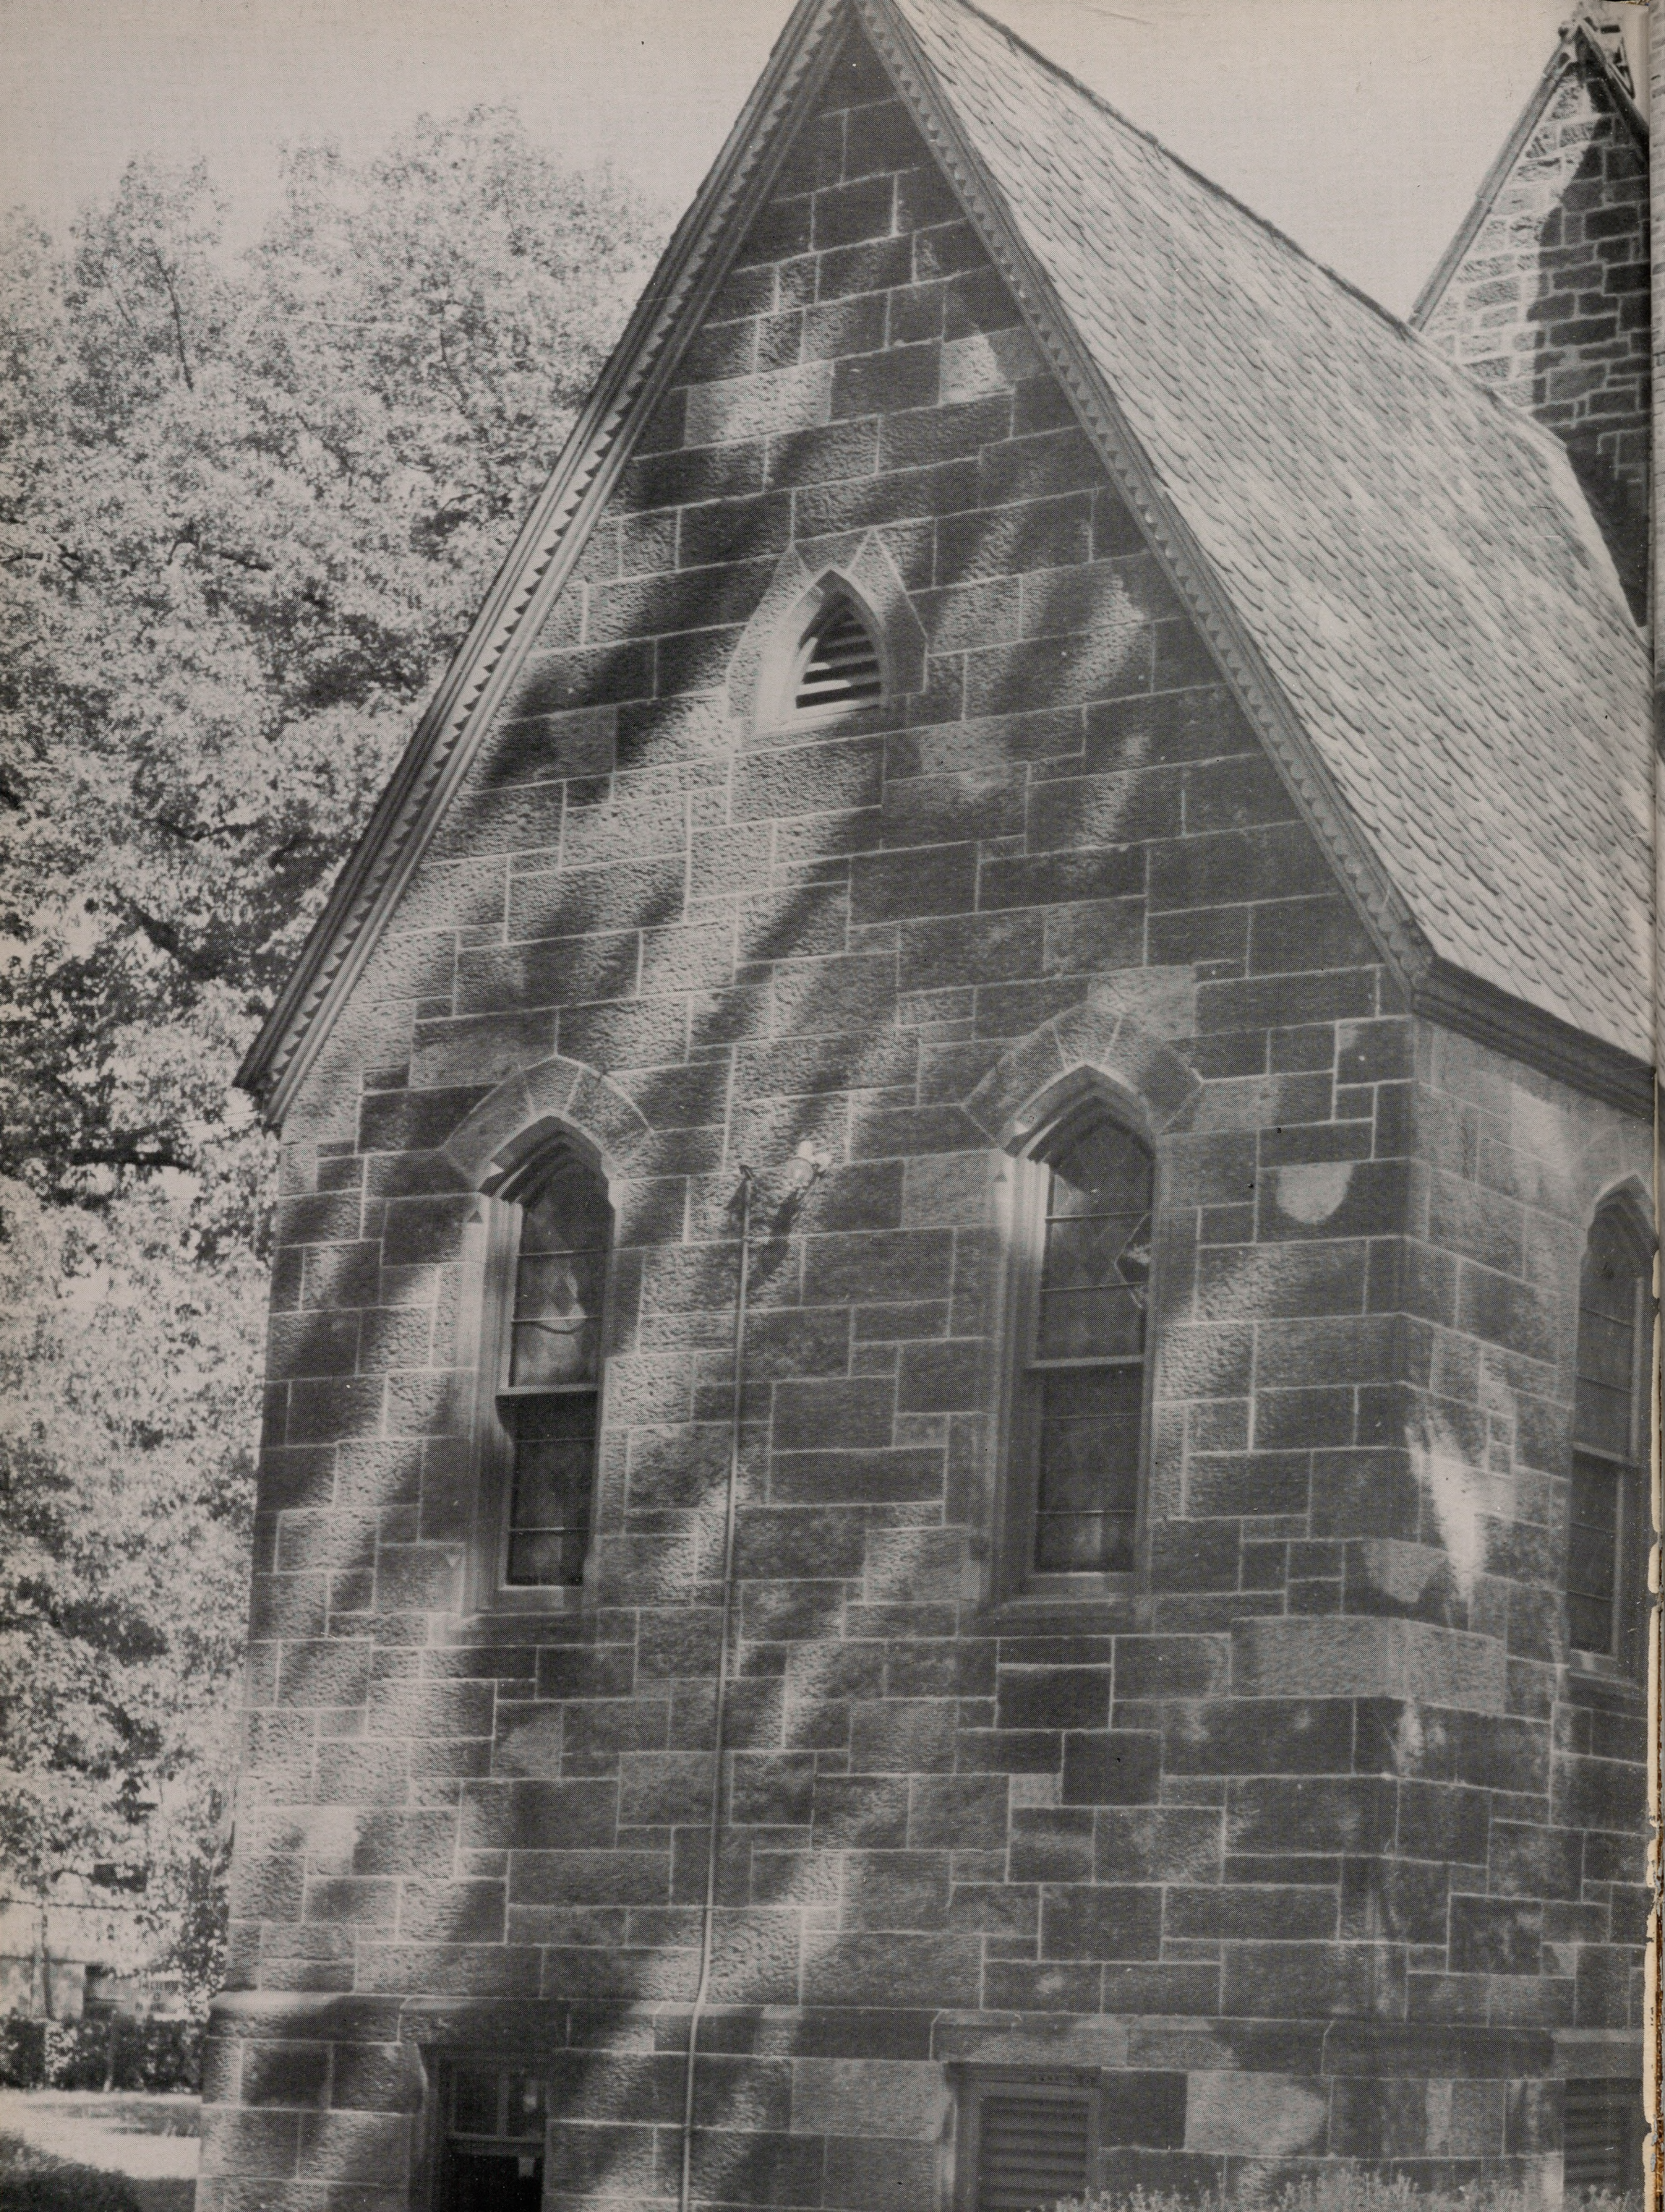

The year 1954-55 saw the birth of a unique organization on campus, started by a group of students who felt a need to develop their physical capacity along with their intellectual potency. This group, known as the Weight Lifting Club, was headed by the competent Mr. Vic Gerardi, a senior who was well experienced in the arts of weightlifting and wrestling.

During November of this year they appeared before the Student Council for full recognition on an equal status with other organizations. December still found them "working out" at the Orange Community House due to a lack of facilities at the Gym, but by January they had been put on probation by the Student Council and had received the necessary facilities in the Gym. In view of the fact that the club this year was not subsidized by the school, over 800 lbs. of weights in addition to other equipment was acquired through donation or by means of an initiation fee asked of each new member.

With many of the constituents seeing the organization as a nucleus for a future Seton Hall Athletic Club many events were planned for the ensuing years amongst which are the inauguration of wrestling and the possibility of a Mr. Seton Hall Contest.

Standing: Bob Kaiser, Bob Scott, Ed Kendzerski, Bob Hart, Jack Colton. Kneeling: Al Rizzolo, Charlie Lyons, Vic Gerarda, Frank Dalmotte, Dick Walsh, John Maye.

Acknowledgments

As I come to this particular page of the yearbook, I am prompted to recollect, to the best of my ability, all of the individuals and organizations that have helped me, the editors, and the staff to publish this, the 1955 Galleon of Seton Hall University. It has taken a considerable amount of time (June 1954 to May 1955), to plan, organize, and gather material for this book, and, therefore, it is self evident that many people have directly or indirectly contributed to the success of this yearbook. It would be impossible for me to personally thank them. Therefore, I would like to publicly extend my deepest appreciation to those who made my job just a little easier. There were, however, a number of individuals whom I could not have done without. Since the precedent has now been established, it seems entirely proper that I utilize this space in pointing out those who have taken more than a passive interest in this publication.

Sincere thanks to Father Edward Larkin, Director of the Department of Student Affairs, for his advice and guidance in financial matters. Also to Father Joseph Russell, Moderator, who was always anxious to aid the editors and staff in any way possible.

A deep bow to Progress Associates, publishers of the 1955 Galleon. Especially to Messrs. Harvey Lawshe, Douglas Pruett, and Miss Sheila Smith who were invaluable. Their experience, assistance, and patience were our biggest assets.

A tip of the hat to Delma Studios, photographers of the 1955 Galleon. The cooperation received from Mr. Fields and Mr. Kirker was beyond expectations. It was also a very pleasing task working with Messrs. Taub and Halperin, and their efforts helped to make this yearbook outstanding.

Without the assistance of Mr. Larry Keefe and Mr. Gene Collins, several pictures would have been unavailable, and additional time would have been wasted by having them taken. These pictures were taken by the George Van Studios, and furnished by the Public Relations Department.

Special thanks go to Irving Lloyd for his suggestions and work on the Activities and Sports Divider. Although not officially connected with the 1955 Galleon, he was most helpful with his artistic interpretation of yearbook photography.

As the book goes to press, I am not inexpressibly sad, but profoundly grateful that the escape from a tedious position has come at last. A new bunch of idealists is elbowing through, so I'll make room for them before the cycle starts again.
